2-YEAR TERMS FACING MEANS AND WHITAKER

Both Convicted of Plot; Defense May Ask New Trial.

Just two hours and a half after it had begun deliberation, the District Supreme Court jury found Gaston B. Means—"the modern Munchausen"—and Norman T. Whitaker—"The Fox"—guilty of conspiring to defraud Mrs. Evalyn Walsh McLean of $35,000 in the Lindbergh kidnaping ransom hoax.

Coming at 4:30 p. m., the verdict, expected by most listeners, was something of an anticlimax to the astounding events of the trial, during which Col. Charles A. Lindbergh told the story of his son's death. Means recounted in detail a sensational tale of the kidnaping and United States Attorney Leo A. Rover, the prosecutor, fervidly pleaded for a conviction.

Farewell to Wife.

The packed drama of the previous days was absent, however, when the jury filed to their seats and the foreman intoned its findings of "guilty as indicted." Whitaker's attorney, Joseph C. Turco, was on his feet asking a poll of the individual members. The courtroom was quiet throughout.

Means looked at the jury box with his queer twisted smile as each juror answered "guilty" as the clerk of the court called the roll. Whitaker stood impassive with his eyes upon the floor.

It was over in a few minutes. The two defendants were taken out to the van waiting to take them to the District Jail. Means turned and looked at his wife, a constant attendant at the trial and she whispered audibly, "I'll see you downstairs." There, she had but a moment to say farewell.

Mrs. Means Searched.

About an hour earlier Mrs. Means had been taken to the Woman's Bureau and searched on orders of Mr. Rover, who said that he had information that she might have the major portion of Mrs. McLean's $100,000 concealed upon her person.

The money was not found and she was immediately released. Mr. Rover declared: "I had received information that she had the money concealed on her person in a money belt and that persons were plotting to assassinate her and seize the money. Acting on this information, I ordered the search."

The jury went to its deliberations and luncheon with Mr. Rover's stirring and bitter rebuttal argument still ringing in its ears. "I take the responsibility of telling you," he had declared, "that Means' story is a tissue of lies. He had this crooked scheme in his head from the time he first learned that the Lindbergh child was kidnaped."

The maximum penalty which may be imposed upon the pair is two years in the penitentiary and $10,000 fine. It is expected that their attorneys

Reforestation Offer Derided by Veterans

Marchers Silent on Administration's Extension of Stay at Fort Hunt; First Lady Tramps Through Mud to Virginia Camp.

Receiving in silence the administration's extension of their stay at Fort Hunt, the bonus army gathered in the Washington Auditorium yesterday cheered to the echo the shout of Albert G. Sellers, member of the veterans' steering committee—"to hell with reforestation——"

A few minutes later the bonus legions adjourned for the day and hustled back to Fort Hunt in Veterans' Bureau buses. Just as they gathered for supper, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt and Col. Louis Howe, the President's counselor, pulled up in the First Lady's snappy roadster.

Introduced to the veterans by George Brady, permanent chairman of the army, Mrs. Roosevelt flashed her famed smile as the men twice gave her three cheers. In the background there were scattered cries of "Bonus, bonus," and "We want the bonus," but the authors were quickly "shushed" by their comrades.

Braving the sloppy camp ground, the First Lady then tramped with Brady to the mess tent, where she inspected the kitchen equipment and looked over the shining cans of hot supper ready for the men. Mrs. Roosevelt then trudged across the soaked parade ground of the old Army post, and, entering the large assembly tent erected by the Government, stepped to the speaker's rostrum.

Somebody put a phonograph record on the loud speaker and the strains of "The Star-Spangled Banner" came forth. The First Lady and several hundred veterans stood while the national anthem was played, and then Mrs. Roosevelt launched into a short, extemporaneous talk.

"I can't talk politics," she said. "That's not my business. I have always had a very deep interest in

JOHN GRIER HIBBEN DIES IN AUTO CRASH

Wife of President Emeritus of Princeton Badly Hurt in Truck Collision.

Woodbridge, N. J., May 16 (U.P.).—Dr. John Grier Hibben, 72, who served as president of Princeton University for more than 20 years before his retirement in 1932, was injured fatally today when the automobile in which he was riding collided with a truck.

Dr. Hibben, who succeeded the late Woodrow Wilson as president of Princeton, died while being taken to Rahway Memorial Hospital.

Mrs. Hibben, who was with him in the car, was severely injured and was reported unconscious in the Rahway Hospital. Peter Scibilia, of New Brunswick, driver of the truck, also was seriously injured.

Dr. Hibben was driving his large sedan which police believe skidded into the truck due to the wet pavement. A motorist took him and Mrs. Hibben to the hospital, where the former university president was pronounced dead. Mrs. Hibben's condition was regarded as critical.

Dr. Hibben, who made his home in Princeton, was a native of Peoria, Ill., the son of a clergyman.

He was graduated from Princeton in 1882 and then attended the Princeton Theological Seminary for three years. There followed a year of study in the University of Berlin.

He returned to this country as a young Presbyterian clergyman and served as pastor in Chambersburg, Pa., for four years. In 1891 he was invited to return to Princeton to teach, and he accepted. He taught logic, psychology and Biblical history at first, but within three years became an associate professor. Three years later he was a full professor.

At the time Wilson resigned as president of Princeton to become Governor of New Jersey, Dr. Hibben was among the most popular members of the school's faculty and his selection as president proved again and again to have been an inspired choice.

He is survived by his wife, the former Jenny Davidson, of Elizabeth, N. J., to whom he was married in 1887, and by his daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Scoon.

Mrs. Hibben was still unconscious in a Rahway hospital five hours after the accident. She suffered, among other injuries, a fracture of the skull at the base.

Guest Barricaded In Hotel Is Killed

Kansas City, May 16 (A.P.).—George Harriman, 58, was fatally wounded this afternoon by police who captured him in a small hotel room, where he had barricaded himself after wounding a companion, James E. Davis, 57, during a quarrel.

Police summoned to the hotel found Davis staggering down a stairway suffering from a head wound. Harriman covered four officers with his revolver as they tried to enter his room, forcing them to retreat.

The officers received reinforcements and opened fire on the barricaded room. Harriman returned the fire. None of the officers was wounded. After exchanging shots for half an hour, officers filled the room with tear gas and rushed Harriman.

Plane for New York Forced Down by Fog

Havre de Grace, Md., May 16 (A.P.).—An Eastern Air Transport passenger plane was forced down by fog here today and remained at Havre de Grace until early this afternoon, when it continued its flight from Washington to New York.

One of the passengers was Representative Hartley, of New Jersey.

DEPRESSION RELIEF MEASURE IS READY

$3,300,000,000 Construction Bill Goes to Hill After Noon Today.

(Copyright, 1933, by the Associated Press.)

Redrafted for the ninth time, the huge public works-industrial regulation bill in which President Roosevelt will ask almost unlimited powers to combat the depression through a $3,300,000,000 construction program and through regulation of industry last night was finaly ready for speedy dispatch to Congress.

Declaring in its preamble the existence of a "state of national emergency" because of the unemployment situation and the "disorganization" of industry, the momentous legislation would clothe the Chief Executive with broad loan-making authority and provide permission for voluntary agreements within industry. The power is included, however, to enforce agreements if necessary.

With an eye to the possibility of such revenue at some future date, it was intimated that in sending the public works-industrial control bill to Congress he will ask that he be given power to reduce or eliminate any new taxes proposed for the amortization of the big construction fund.

The legislation is to be introduced today shortly after noon with the full weight of the administration behind it for enactment at this session of Congress.

As finally completed late last night at the office of Lewis W. Douglas, director of the budget, who conferred with the President until after sundown, the bill would authorize the following construction works:

1. Public highways—$400,000,000, of which $250,000,000 would follow the present allocation and $150,000,000 would be for extensions.
2. Public buildings—No set limit.
3. Naval construction—$100,000,000 maximum.
4. Army, including equipment and possibly a huge airplane flotilla should the disarmament conference fail—$100,000,000 maximum.
5. Slums and housing following the pattern of the U. S. Housing Corporation of war days—No set limit.
6. Natural resources, including soil and erosion work, forestry and similar projects—No set limit.
7. Loans to railroads for maintenance and equipment—No limit.

While spokesmen of the administration declined to discuss in detail the manner in which the $3,300,000,000 program would be financed, it was said that the money would be raised under the second liberty loan act's authority.

Word came out of the White House late yesterday after the conference between Douglas and the President that the plan to raise the necessary $220,000,000 for paying interest and amortizing the issue by a manufacturers' sale tax had been virtually abandoned.

Belcastro's Death Probed in Chicago

Chicago, May 16 (A.P.).—Six leading citizens, composing a coroner's jury, today inspected two night clubs as they sought clews to the gangland slaying of Rocco Belcastro, "public enemy."

At police headquarters Charles (Casey Kane) Kunowski, 23, former convict and reputed enemy of Belcastro, was held while ballistics tests were made on his revolver. On his neck is a scar, inflicted, authorities said, by Belcastro in a pistol battle when the two fell out some time ago over division of alcohol profits.

Belcastro's bullet-slugged body was found in an abandoned automobile yesterday. In his hand was a nickel—gangland insignia for the double-crosser.

MRS. NORTON OFFERS TO AID IN MILK PROBE

'Thoroughly in Sympathy' With Post's Efforts, Member Says.

By DANIEL B. MAHER.

The aid of Representative Mary T. Norton, chairman of the House District Committee, was volunteered by her last night in the movement to begin a Senate inquiry into the price of milk and other dairy products.

Not only was her personal aid offered, but Mrs. Norton declared she will ask the House District Committee to cooperate with the Senate District Committee in ferreting out all aspects of the local milk situation in its effort to determine whether there is a milk trust in operation.

Wants Prices Reduced.

"I am in thorough sympathy with this effort to effect a reduction in the price of milk. The facts so far brought to light show a wide disparity between the retail prices in Washington and in other large cities of the country. I would like to know the reason for this difference.

"Unquestionably, there is no food commodity in which the health of children is so inextricably woven, as it is in milk. I am anxious to do every thing I can to bring a plentiful supply of milk to all children at a price that is within the range of their parents' income.

Conspiracy Sought.

"If there is any conspiracy or trust in operation here it should be exposed and I will do my utmost to see that the full facts are brought to light. I will also ask the House District Committee to lend its fullest support to the movement."

The House Committee meets today at 10:30 o'clock. Other members of the committee, including Representative Lohring Black (Democrat), of New York, have volunteered their aid in bringing about the inquiry.

Assurance that a vigorous protest against the price of milk will be voiced tonight at a mass meeting in Central High School auditorium, was given yesterday by Michael D. Schaefer, president of the District Department of the American Federation of Government Employes.

The meeting, which was called at the instance of the department, will be called upon to take concerted action in the adoption of a formal resolution on the subject, Mr. Schaefer said.

Simpson Lends Indorsement.

Philadelphia, May 16 (A.P.).—Dr. John Chalmers Da Costa, 70, internationally known surgeon and teacher, died today. He had been ill with arthritis.

During the World War he served as physician to President Wilson and accompanied the Chief Executive to the peace conference in France. He received the rank of commander in the Navy.

For more than 40 years he had been a member of the faculty at the Jefferson Medical College and since 1900 had filled the Samuel D. Gross chair of surgery. He was the recipient of many honors.

Repeal Gains Another State as Jersey Votes

Trenton, N. J., May 16 (U.P.).—New Jersey today joined the States favoring repeal of the eighteenth amendment when 84 delegates at large and more than 100 of the 164 district delegates pledged to vote for repeal were elected in a State-wide primary.

OPTIONAL PLAN OF RETIREMENT IN OFFICE BILL

Federal Workers Winners of Long Fight; Quota Clause Amended.

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

Optional retirement for 30-year Federal employes, the goal toward which organized Government workers have been striving for a decade, yesterday was written into the independent offices bill by the Senate Appropriations Committee.

At the same time, the pendulum which has kept proposals for a State quota foundation for Federal dismissals in constant flux swung again.

The committee rewrote the "apportionment clause" so that efficiency as well as State quotas would be considered in making separations from the service.

Subcommittee Reversed.

The new provision, while modifying the House mandate that employes from States having more than their apportioned number of workers be the first dismissed, nevertheless reverses subcommittee action 24 hours previously completely striking the quota language from the bill.

Senate Democratic Leader Robinson said last night he will try to get the new draft before the Senate late this week.

Yet another significant change was written into the $540,000,000 independent offices bill before the full committee favorably reported the far-reaching measure to the Senate. The committee dropped from the bill an authorization for the President to modify or cancel transportation agreements, such as ocean and air mail contracts.

Minority Fight Futile.

This authority, specifically requested by the Budget Bureau and the President, was the center of a futile minority fight in the House. House Republicans opposed the authorization while the bill was in the House Appropriations Committee and later vainly sought to send the measure back to committee to have the change made.

Yesterday's move for optional 30-year retirement was a victory for the National Federation of Federal Employes, which has fought for the change for years and only Monday wrote Senate Appropriations Chairman Carter Glass that clarifying language should be written into the House provision.

Bill Passed by House.

As the bill left the House it was construed to mean that only where 30-year employes were involuntarily separated from the service would the retirement machinery operate. The Senate committee yesterday made the provision read, "voluntarily or involuntarily."

The federation believes that out of 22,000 30-year Federal employes there

Roosevelt Urges 54 Nations to Abandon Offensive Weapons

Soviet Message Seen As Link to Recognition

Robinson, of Arkansas, Shares Borah's Interpretation That Inclusion in Arms Plea Shows Desire for Relations.

The President's action in dispatching his historic message to the Moscow government direct instead of through intermediaries as heretofore, was generally interpreted here as forecasting a recognition of the Soviet government in a short time.

In authoritative circles, there was a tendency to decry this interpretation. It was offered that the basis on which the messages had been sent yesterday morning was solely to include those countries who were participating in the Disarmament Conference in Geneva or in the Economic Conference at London. For this reason the United States had communicated with Soviet Russia in a message addressed to M. Kalenin, president of the executive committee of the U. S. S. R. Liberia and El Salvador, both countries with which the United States is not in formal relations, were not included in the President's appeal.

The United States had broken off diplomatic relations with Liberia in spectacular manner by the sudden recall of the American Minister recently, and El Salvador has fallen under the ban of the Treaty of Peace and Amity, by which this country withholds recognition of a government entering into power through revolution. Roberto Milends, special delegate of El Salvador, announced here last night his country would be represented at the Economic Conference. He said "Great Britain has recognized my country, even if the United States has not, and has invited us to send a delegation to London. We have accepted."

It has been known for some time that the President has been closely studying the situation in Russia with the view of developing closer trade relations with that country either under a system of recognition or by

ROOSEVELT MAY ASK FAST REPEAL ACTION

Considers Appeal to States After Congress Ends Early in June.

(Copyright, 1933, by the United Press.)

An appeal to States to hasten repeal of the eighteenth amendment is being considered seriously by President Roosevelt, it was reliably reported last night.

Such a pronouncement of far-reaching proportions, however, will be timed to come some time after Congress adjourns early in June, it was explained in authoritative quarters.

Mr. Roosevelt, in spite of the pressure of international politics, has been watching the repeal vote in widely scattered points throughout the country with undisguised interest. He was said to feel that any statement should wait until the business of disposing pending emergency legislation was accomplished.

In unofficial circles, however, he was reported as anxious to avoid the flareup between wets and drys in Congress should anything in the nature of an official pronunciamento on the subject be aired during the extra session.

Cheered by the receipts from the legalization of beer which so far have exceeded the estimates of $125,000,000 annually, friends of the fight for outright repeal point to an additional $800,000,000 that they insist can be tapped coincident with the sale of hard liquor.

In other words, they claim, sufficient revenue would accrue to the Federal Government to allow it to go a long way toward balancing the budget and at the same time in removing the extra levies that are certain to come for the financing of a huge public works program.

Fiscal experts estimate that this latter tax will have to yield approximately $220,000,000 annually to pay the interest and to amortize the public works bond issue.

It was expected in well-informed quarters that Mr. Roosevelt would not turn to the repeal situation until convinced that all emergency legislative matters were disposed of and that the international atmosphere had clarified in regard to tariff and other world-wide problems.

A. F. of L. Enters War on Rackets

Chicago, May 16 (A.P.).—The American Federation of Labor, through representatives of affiliated unions, today entered the drive to oust racketeering from Chicago's outlaw unions.

After a conference between Mayor Edward J. Kelley, State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney and Daniel J. Tobin, Indianapolis, president of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs and Helpers, the mayor announced an alliance between the federation and officials in the war on labor racketeering.

The drive first will aim at dispossession of Michael Galvin, John Sheridan, jr., Milton Booth, jr., and Daniel Cain, powers behind the Chicago teamsters' union, an organization Courtney charged was gangster controlled.

JAPAN ASTONISHED AT ROOSEVELT PLEA

Hitler Postpones Draft of Speech to Examine Text of Message.

Tokyo (Wednesday), May 17 (A.P.).—Astonishment at the method as well as the text of President Roosevelt's appeal marked Japan's first reactions.

This at present outweighed any semblance of the usual hostility with which Tokyo has received similar proposals, such as the MacDonald disarmament plan and Soviet Russia's nonaggression pact overtures.

The President's action in addressing his message directly to the emperor instead of to the foreign office was declared unprecedented.

"The foreign office is unable in anywise to comment on what the President of the United States communicated directly to the Emperor of Japan," declared a spokesman, adding that the reply involved difficulties because "the emperor never speaks with foreign nations on political matters."

In official quarters, however, it was indicated Mr. Roosevelt's sweeping nonaggression proposals would be inacceptable if applied literally to the Orient, where Japan considers China's condition presents special problems.

Berlin, May 16 (U.P.).—The German people awaited somewhat uneasily tonight to hear Chancellor Adolf Hitler outline before the suddenly convened Reichstag tomorrow the Nazi administration's arms plans.

The chancellor held up final draft of his speech tonight to peruse more fully the official text of President Roosevelt's appeal for Germany's cooperation in the world's struggle for a permanent basis for peace.

In official quarters an atmosphere of relief was noticeable, leaders feeling that Mr. Roosevelt had opened a way out of the disarmament tangle which has been blamed by France and the other former allies on Germany.

They feel, it was learned from sources close to the chancellor, that

500 Fire-Fighters Save Maine Town in Blaze

Tremont, Me., May 16 (A.P.).—Five hundred weary fire fighters tonight believed they had saved this small community from a forest blaze which swept over an area of four square miles on Mount Desert Island today.

Sea water, backfires and brooms were brought into play to turn aside the flames which encroached upon the village enough to damage two buildings. A shift in the wind late in the day aided their efforts.

Lee Wilson Dodd Dies; Was Yale Playwright

New York, May 16 (A.P.).—Lee Wilson Dodd, author, playwright, and assistant to Prof. George Pierce Baker in the play writing courses of the Yale University department of drama, died suddenly late today.

Dodd, who was visiting the home of friends in West Seventieth street when he died, was to have succeeded Prof. Baker next year. Death was due apparently to heart disease.

3-Point Peace Plea Precedes Hitler Statement.

Only El Salvador and Liberia Ignored in Notes.

The texts of the President's statement to the nations of the world and his message to Congress will be found on Page 2.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

President Roosevelt yesterday in a humanitarian appeal to the world's leaders urged them to arrest the course of disaster by adoption of a three-point program for world peace.

The plan proposed by the President was nurtured by him over the past several weeks and was offered to the presidents and sovereigns of 54 nations on the eve of a dramatic announcement from Chancellor Hitler of Germany.

The Roosevelt peace plan included the immediate elimination of all offensive weapons, large caliber guns, monster tanks, poison gas, &c., from warfare, a truce on all further armament building and a military embargo on the sending of troops abroad from any country for any reason whatsoever.

Acceptance Is Likely.

Indications last night were that the proposal of the White House dispatched in the early hours of Tuesday morning to the four corners of the earth, with the notable exceptions of Liberia and El Salvador, will be greeted with a mixed reception. In general it is expected the proposal will be accepted "in principle," even in Germany, where the full force of the President's pronouncement was directed, without any specific mention of the Hitler threat to rearm Germany in defiance of the Versailles Treaty.

The President followed his world appeal by a corollary statement to Congress in which he recited the reasons behind his earlier statement on behalf of success at the World Economic Conference in London as well as at the General Disarmament Conference in Geneva.

Delegates to Conference.

The roster of the delegates to the London Conference was announced in part yesterday and will include, as had been anticipated, as chairman of the American delegation, Secretary of State Cordell Hull, with former Gov. James M. Cox of Ohio and Senator Key Pittman, of Nevada.

The complete delegation will probably include six or seven members and will also be made up of at least one Republican, either Senator David A. Reed, if he can be persuaded to accept, or Senator Borah.

Former Secretary of State Stimson has also been spoken of. Assistant Secretary of State Raymond Moley will not go to London for the opening sessions but will probably attend

MITCHELL HELD MOB PSYCHOLOGY VICTIM

Public Demanded "Big Fish" Be Prosecuted, Steuer Explains to Court.

New York, May 16 (A.P.).—Charles E. Mitchell was characterized by his counsel today as a "big fish" brought to trial for alleged income tax violation to appease "mob psychology," while the Government charged him with cheating it of $858,429.68 in taxes.

"When mob psychology controls," said Max D. Steuer, the gray-haired criminal lawyer, "who is then to be made the victim? Some underling? No, we need big fish. And Charles E. Mitchell was a big fish."

The opening statements of Government and defense attorneys occupied the entire day. The Government will begin presentation of its evidence tomorrow.

Called Benefactor.

The banker was portrayed by Steuer as a benefactor who averted a financial crash the extent of which "God alone could foretell" by selling his National City Bank stock to his wife in 1929 instead of disposing of it on the open market.

Steuer outlined Mitchell's defense after United States Attorney George Z. Medalie had characterized as "fiction and sham" the transactions by which the former National City Bank chairman wrote off his income to net losses in 1929 and 1930.

Cites 2 Other Counts.

In addition to the allegedly spurious deal with Mrs. Mitchell, Medalie cited two other counts on which he declared the "no longer supreme figure" of finance guilty of fraud. These were:

First: The transfer in 1930 of 8,500 shares of Anaconda Copper stock to W. D. Thornton, president of the Greene-Cananea Copper Co., "without Thornton putting up a cent or ever owning the stock" and "counting in that transaction no more than did the King of Siam."

Second: Mitchell's receipt of $666,668.67 from the National City Management Fund in 1929, and failing to report it.

Medalie said the banker "made a pretense" of paying it back "to try to show the stockholders they weren't taking quite everything they could lay their hands on."

Steuer answered that whether the payments to officers from the management fund represented earnings or advances on expected profits, to be returned if the profits failed to materialize as was the case in 1929, was a legal question still undetermined.

Policies Praised By Lloyd George

Scarborough, England, May 16 (A.P.).—The American public and the Roosevelt program for world recovery received warm praise here today from David Lloyd George, former prime minister of Great Britain, who asked also for "fair play" for the Germans.

While commending the spirit and the policies issuing from Washington, Mr. Lloyd George sharply criticized the British government for what he called its inactivity in the face of emergencies.

The present disturbed condition in Germany, the war premier declared in addressing the Women's National Liberal Federation, is largely the result of the failure of the allied powers to disarm themselves as they have forced Germany to disarm.

ARMS MESSAGE TO 54 RULERS

Text of President Roosevelt's message on arms to the rulers of the world follows:

A profound hope of the people of my country impels me, as the head of their Government, to address you and, through you, the people of your nation. This hope is that peace may be assured through practical measures of disarmament and that all of us may carry to victory our common struggle against economic chaos.

To these ends the nations have called two great world conferences. The happiness, the prosperity and the very lives of the men, women and children who inhabit the whole world are bound up in the decisions which their governments will make in the near future. The improvement of social conditions, the preservation of individual human rights and the furtherance of social justice are dependent upon these decisions.

The World Economic Conference will meet soon and must come to its conclusion quickly. The world can not await deliberations long drawn out. The conference must establish order in place of the present chaos by a stabilization of currencies, by freeing the flow of world trade and by international action to raise price levels. It must, in short, supplement individual domestic programs for economic recovery, by wise and considered international action.

The disarmament conference has labored for more than a year and, as yet, has been unable to reach satisfactory conclusions. Confused purposes still clash dangerously. Our duty lies in the direction of bringing practical results through concerted action based upon the greatest good to the greatest number. Before the imperative call of this great duty, petty obstacles must be swept away and petty aims forgotten. A selfish victory is always destined to be an ultimate defeat. The furtherance of durable peace for our generation in every part of the world is the only goal worthy of our best efforts.

Twofold Reasons Cited For World Armaments.

If we ask what are the reasons for armaments, which in spite of the lessons and tragedies of the World War, are today a greater burden on the peoples of the earth than ever before, it becomes clear that they are twofold: First, the desire, disclosed or hidden, on the part of governments to enlarge their territories at the expense of a sister nation. I believe that only a small minority of governments or of peoples harbor such a purpose. Second, the fear of nations that they will be invaded. I believe that the overwhelming majority of peoples feel obliged to retain excessive armaments because they fear some act of aggression against them and not because they themselves seek to be aggressors.

There is justification for this fear. Modern weapons of offense are vastly stronger than modern weapons of defense. Frontier forts, trenches, wire entanglements, coast defenses—in a word, fixed fortifications—are no longer impregnable to the attack of war planes, heavy mobile artillery, land battleships, called tanks, and poison gas.

If all nations will agree wholly to eliminate from possession and use the weapons which make possible a successful attack, defenses automatically will become impregnable, and the frontiers and independence of every nation will become secure.

The ultimate objective of the disarmament conference must be the complete elimination of all offensive weapons. The immediate objective is a substantial reduction of some of these weapons and the elimination of many others.

This Government believes that the program for immediate reduction of aggressive weapons, now under discussion at Geneva, is but a first step toward our ultimate goal. We do not believe that the proposed immediate steps go far enough. Nevertheless, this Government welcomes the measures now proposed and will exert its influence toward the attainment of further successive steps of disarmament.

Steps to Be Decided In Present Parleys.

Stated in the clearest way, there are three steps to be agreed upon in the present discussions:

First—To take, at once, the first definite step toward this objective as broadly outlined in the MacDonald plan.

Second—To agree upon time and procedure for taking the following steps.

Third—To agree that while the first and the following steps are being taken no nation shall increase its existing armaments over and above the limitations of treaty obligations.

But the peace of the world must be assured during the whole period of disarmament, and I, therefore, propose a fourth step concurrent with and wholly dependent on the faithful fulfillment of these three proposals and subject to existing treaty rights:

That all the nations of the world should enter into a solemn and definite pact of nonaggression; that they should solemnly reaffirm the obligations they have assumed to limit and reduce their armaments, and, provided these obligations are faithfully executed by all signatory powers, individually agree that they will send no armed force of whatsoever nature across their frontiers.

Common sense points out that if any strong nation refuses to join with genuine sincerity in these concerted efforts for political and economic peace, the one at Geneva and the other at London, progress can be obstructed and ultimately blocked. In such event the civilized world, seeking both forms of peace, will know where the responsibility for failure lies.

I urge that no nation assume such a responsibility, and that all the nations joined in these great conferences translate their professed policies into action. This is the way to political and economic peace.

I trust that your government will join in the fulfillment of these hopes.

FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT.

Arms Message Forwarded To Congress by President

President Roosevelt's message to Congress on arms is as follows:

To the Congress:

For the information of the Congress I am sending herewith a message that I have addressed this morning to the sovereigns and presidents of those nations participating in the disarmament conference and the world monetary and economic conference.

I was impelled to this action because it has become increasingly evident that the assurance of world political and economic peace and stability is threatened by selfish and shortsighted policies, actions and threats of actions.

The sincere wish for this assurance by an overwhelming majority of the nations faces the danger of recalcitrant obstruction by a very small minority, just as in the domestic field the good purposes of a majority in business, labor or in other cooperative efforts are often frustrated by a selfish few.

The deep-rooted desire of Americans for better living conditions and for the avoidance of war is shared by mass humanity in every country. As a means to this end, I have in the message to the various nations stressed the practical necessity of reducing armaments. It is high time for us and for every other nation to understand the simple fact that the invasion of any nation, or the destruction of a national sovereignty can be prevented only by the complete elimination of the weapons that make such a course possible today.

Such an elimination will make the little nation relatively more secure against the great nation.

Furthermore, permanent defenses are a nonrecurring charge against governmental budgets while large armies, continually rearmed with improved offensive weapons, constitute a recurring charge. This, more than any other factor today is responsible for governmental deficits and threatened bankruptcy.

The way to disarm is to disarm. The way to prevent invasion is to make it impossible.

I have asked for an agreement among nations on four practical and simultaneous steps:

First, that through a series of steps the weapons of offensive warfare be eliminated.

Second, that the first definite step be taken now.

Third, that while these steps are being taken no nation shall increase existing armaments over and above the limitations of treaty obligations.

Fourth, that subject to existing treaty rights no nation during the disarmament period shall send any armed force of whatsoever nature across its own borders.

Our people realize that weapons of offense are needed only if other nations have them, and they will freely give them up if all the nations of the world will do likewise.

In the domestic field the Congress has labored in sympathetic understanding with me for the improvement of social conditions, for the preservation of individual human rights, and for the furtherance of social justice.

In the message to the nations which I herewith transmit I have named the same objectives. It is in order to assure these great human values that we seek peace by ridding the world of the weapons of aggression and attack.

FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT.

NATIONS ASKED TO DISARM

some of the later ones, after Secretary Hull has returned.

Usual Group of Experts.

The usual group of experts will accompany the American delegation and will include American Minister to Canada, Warren Delano Robbins, James W. Warburg, now attached unofficially to the Department of State; William Christian Bullitt, special assistant to the Secretary of State; Dr. Herbert Feis, economist of the State Department; Prof. Tugwell, Assistant Secretary of Agriculture, and A. A. M. Berle, of the Federal Reserve Board. Bernard M. Baruch, New York financier, has also been mentioned as one of the delegates, and Newton D. Baker, another.

The President's world appeal was remarkable for two reasons, which lifted it out of the usual category of such state papers. It indicated that the United States was willing to materially change some of its doctrines hitherto regarded as part of the permanent policy of this Government. The United States is willing to extend the embargo on military effectives to American Marines. Hereafter they will not be sent to Latin America for the protection of American life and property there.

The Roosevelt peace message was also addressed to Mikhail I. Kalenin, senior president of the Central Executive Committee of the Soviet Union. Nominally M. Kalenin is the head of the Soviet Government, but in reality the country is in the grip of Josef Stalin, who directs the entire activities of the country from an obscure post in the presidium. This fact was interpreted here as a definite indication of recognition of Soviet Russia at an early date.

Attempts were made in authoritative circles to decry this assumption by basing the Soviet invitation on the fact that all the countries invited to London for the economic parley and to Geneva for the disarmament discussions had been addressed by the President.

British Ambassador Sir Ronald Lindsay was a caller at the Department of State late yesterday afternoon and acclaimed the President's statement as "very fine." The British Government will discuss the proposal at a special cabinet meeting today. Prime Minister MacDonald hailed the Roosevelt statement with lyrical enthusiasm and saw by its pronouncement the American ship of state embarked on new waters.

Matter of Consultation.

The President is ready to consider the matter of consultation in the event that any attempt be made to breach the Kellogg-Briand pact. However, he has not yet determined the form in which his nonagression treaty would be cast. This is after all a minor matter, once the principle of nonagression has been accepted by all the nations.

The President proposed to the nations:

"That they should enter into a solemn and definite pact of nonaggression; that they should solemnly reaffirm the obligations they have assumed to limit and reduce their armaments and, provided these obligations are faithfully executed by all signatory powers, individually agree that they will send no armed force of whatsoever nature across their frontiers.

The recent conversations here at the White House explored the possibilities that might be afforded the nations of accepting and approving the details of the MacDonald plan for disarmament. In substance the President proposed the very disarmament details which are vital to French security. This is believed to count in winning the prompt acceptance of the French government to the proposal.

France, with her great border forts on the German-French border as well as on the Franco-Italian border, is believed to have been favored by the President's statement where he said:

"Permanent defenses are a nonrecurring charge against governmental budgets; while large armies, continually rearmed with improved offensive weapons, constitute a recurring charge. This more than any other factor today is responsible for governmental deficits and threatened bankruptcy."

DuceHastens Study Of Roosevelt Policy

Rome, May 16 (A.P.).—Premier Mussolini today changed the date of the next grand council meeting from May 27 to May 20 to facilitate the earliest possible discussions by his highest collaborators on the suggestions contained in President Roosevelt's message.

Meanwhile the government made no decision regarding the suggestion and offered no official comment.

Unofficially the President's statement was considered most opportune and caused favorable reaction, based on newspaper versions. The official text had not been received tonight.

JAPAN ASTONISHED AT ROOSEVELT PLEA

Mr. Roosevelt's proposal for the universal acceptance of the MacDonald arms readjustment plan as a concrete basis for international negotiations on a world arms accord is fully acceptable to the Hitler regime.

Hitler conferred at length with Count Rudolph Nadolny, Germany's chief delegate at Geneva, and they examined the Roosevelt message in detail together. Nadolny said he planned to return to Geneva tomorrow evening, indicating the main lines of Germany's policy at the arms parley, reconvening Thursday, already have been determined.

Paris, May 16 (A.P.).—The French government increased its vigilance today with regard to Germany's armament intentions and awaited the declaration tomorrow of Chancellor Hitler at Berlin with calm alertness.

Although pleased with President Roosevelt's appeal to the nations, Premier Daladier and his colleagues were none the less disposed to take every precaution for French security which the attitude of Germany imposed upon them.

As a national defense measure the factories of Paris, which produce materials useful for both war and peace purposes, were ordered today to report to the "passive defense bureau" upon their productive capacity.

JUDGE'S REFERENCE TO "PLUM" CLAIMED

Louderback Case Testimony Regarding Receivership Stirs Senate.

(Associated Press.)

Direct testimony that Federal Judge Harold Louderback, of California, spoke of a receivership case he handled as "a plum," in which "fees might run into thousands of dollars," stirred the Senate yesterday as it sat as a court of impeachment over the jurist.

The testimony, given by Addison G. Strong, who, after appointment as receiver for the Russell-Colvin Brokerage Co. by Louderback, was removed by him, followed upon a decision by the senators to call W. S. (Sam) Leake, San Francisco healer, to get from his own lips the story of relations with his intimate friend, Judge Louderback. The Senate voted down a defense proposal that Leake's deposition be taken because he is ill, and authorized that a nurse be provided for the trip to the Capital if necessary.

Strong, who, the impeachment charges brought by the House said, was removed by Louderback because he opposed a demand by Louderback that John D. Short be his attorney, testified that when he protested, Louderback said:

"Don't you realize what a plum you have picked; the fees might run into thousands of dollars?"

"I told him that I wasn't concerned with fees," Strong said, and went on to explain that he wanted at attorney whom he knew. He suggested one named McAuliffe, at which, he said, Judge Louderback became "very indignant."

Leake's connection with the case is that of being named in the House indictment of Louderback as recipient of $1,200 through the same attorney, John D. Short.

Austin, May 16 (A.P.).—Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson today signed a bill redistricting Texas to make room for 21 congressmen instead of 18. Because the State had only 18 districts it was necessary to elect three congressmen from the State at large last November.

VOLLBEHR DEFENDS NAZI WAR ON JEWS

Disbarments Held Logical by Bible Collector; Hits Communists.

The stories of Nazi persecution of Jews in Germany are only Communistic propaganda, it is charged by Dr. Otto H. F. Vollbehr, noted German book and Bible collector, now living in Washington, in a statement issued yesterday.

"It was not the Jew that was attacked and locked away and put in concentraton camps, but it was the Bolshevik, who happened to be a Jew," Dr. Vollbehr's statement says. According to him, the rise of Hitler's Nationalist movement menaced the Communistic party of Germany.

"The Bolsheviks saw their Waterloo ahead of them and were forced to strike. The signal for that well-prepared uprising was the burning of the Reichstag building which was the call to the Red arms all over Germany within 24 hours. But before these 24 hours were over, Hitler had swooped down upon the rabble with an iron fist, and had applied the extinguisher in such a way that the rats were driven back into their holes," the Vollbehr statement continues.

Dr. Vollbehr declares that it was the Communist party "which perverted a purely Bolshevik question into a racial question." He also says that the dictatorship was given to Hitler by the Reichstag as a legitimate and proper piece of parliamentary procedure.

The partial disbarment of Jews from practicing medicine and law was done to "establish a numerical ratio between the races. When the Jews are not quite 1 per cent of the population, they should not aspire to more than 1 per cent of the places available. And that is what Hitler had in mind when he reduced the number of Jewish lawyers and medical doctors considerably," Dr. Vollbehr concludes.

Geneva, May 16 (A.P.).—The dispatch of a League of Nations commission to the Gran Chaco to investigate the Paraguay-Bolivia dispute is favored by the committee of the council which reports to the council tomorrow.

The idea of the committee is to give to the proposed commission wide powers, even including that of arbitration.

ACHESON IS UPHELD DESPITE OPPOSITION

Couzens Loses Fight to Keep Maryland Man Out of Treasury Post.

(Associated Press.)

Despite a vigorous single-handed fight by Senator Couzens (Republican), Michigan, the Senate yesterday confirmed Dean G. Acheson, of Maryland, as Undersecretary of the Treasury.

It acted without a record vote after Senator Tydings (Democrat), Maryland, extended high praise to Acheson's ability and integrity, and said he had no "financial connections with Wall street."

Couzens based his opposition on the contention that Acheson's previous associations, as attorney for large corporations, would handicap him in performing his duty.

The Marylander pointed out the nominee also had represented Soviet Russia and labor unions and said he "possessed the one thing the Government requires, ability backed up by character and integrity."

"He has the highest concepts of citizenship and will give every ounce of his ability and uphold the integrity of office in a manner to please the senator from Michigan," Tydings said. "I can assure the senator if Mr. Acheson makes any mistake it will not be to help one group at the expense of the country as a whole."

Couzens said Acheson had testified before the Senate committee he had no familiarity with finance or the operations of the Treasury. He protested the appointment of men to Treasury posts with past connections with big business and asserted "there has always been a complete coalition between the Republicans and Democrats in control of the Treasury."

"We never got a rise out of the Democrats during the Senate investigation of the Internal Revenue Bureau," Couzens said, "and I don't expect to get one now out of the Republicans."

Couzens concluded by serving notice that Acheson's conduct in office would be "closely watched."

The Senate also confirmed Francis A. Garrecht, of Washington, to serve on the Ninth Circuit Court bench, in the Northwest States.

Civitan Members Witness Remarkable Feats of Memory.

The possibility of developing the memory to a point where it can perform almost unbelievable feats was demonstrated yesterday by M. B. Wooding, well-known memory expert, of Asheville, N. C., at the weekly luncheon meeting of the Washington Civitan Club.

When Mr. Wooding first entered the room he was given the names of almost 100 men, together with their telephone numbers and occupations. Later in the hour he identified each person as his hand was raised. He also took a 40-page magazine, tore out each page, distributed them among the members, and as the number of the page was called, Mr. Wooding told without hesitation the points in each story or advertisement which appeared on that page.

Mr. Wooding stated that it is as easy to train the memory as it is the muscles, and that too constant use of a memo pad results in the eventual loss of the memory.

"Radio Joe" Kaufman was also a guest of the club at its meeting today.

Columbia Heights Leader Expresses Appreciation of Campaign.

W. W. Coulliette, president of the Citizens Forum of Columbia Heights, last night informally expressed the Forum's appreciation to The Post for the part it has taken in the campaign against high milk prices in Washington.

Several months ago the Forum in a resolution asked the Federation of Citizens Associations to conduct an inquiry into the price of dairy products, but due to farm legislation then pending in Congress the federation deemed it advisable to delay the probe.

"I am sure we are all back of The Post in this milk business," Mr. Coulliette said. "We haven't taken action lately on the matter because we have already gone on record in favor of a dairy investigation."

The forum adopted a resolution asking that all relief agencies be incorporated under one head for the sake of efficiency and economy. Elwood Street, director of the Community Chest, gave an illustrated lecture on the work of the chest and the question of maintaining regular charities.

Horace P. Phelps, president of the Petworth Citizens Association, yesterday called The Post's attention to the fact that the Petworth Association had also gone on record some months ago in favor of an investigation of milk prices.

Petworth resolution was also returned from the federation without action because of pending farm legislation.

MRS. NORTON GIVES AID IN MILK PROBE

"Thoroughly in Sympathy" With Efforts of Post, She Declares.

John P. Simpson, chairman of the civic affairs committee of the District Department of the American Federation of Government Employes.

"It seems to be more than a coincidence," said Mr. Simpson, "that milk prices in Washington are higher than in many other large cities. Evidence submitted in The Post's campaign points rather conclusively to a studied effort to maintain exorbitant milk prices. If this is found to be true, summary action should be taken by the proper authorities to correct this situation by which milk consumers of Washington are being relentlessly gouged.

"Since prices of so many other commodities have been lowered, there is no reason why the cost of milk likewise should not be cut, especially since it has been reduced in so many other cities throughout the country. Because milk is so necessary an article of diet, the maintaining of high prices is a form of ruthless tactics that should not be tolerated.

"Government workers should take a leading part in marshaling public opinion behind this movement. They have had their incomes substantially reduced and constitute the largest single group to be affected by any adverse effect of high living costs in the National Capital."

The ase for the local milk consumers will be presented at the mass meeting by James G. Yaden, president of the Federation of Citizens Associations.

The department will also make an attack tonight on its objective of rent reduction. Senator Arthur Capper will be the speaker on this subject. Other speakers will be Representative Jennings Randolph, of West Virginia, and Leo E. George.

Pooes Noel Coward, Told of "Plot" to Kidnap Him in Empire Building.

New York, May 16 (A.P.).—Four men who followed Miss Elsa Maxwell, society favorite, and Noel Coward to the Empire State Building early today were described by the Daily News as would-be kidnapers, but the English actor-playwright said he believed they were only curiosity-trailers and meant no harm.

"I should like to make it dramatic," Coward said between acts at his theater late tonight, "but it isn't."

As related by the News, the four men, flashily-dressed, followed Miss Maxwell and Coward into the lobby of the skyscraper, one of them saying: "That's Coward, we'll wait until they come down."

FIRST LADY IS HEARD BY D. C. FEDERATION

Responsibility of Women Is Stressed in Talk Before Club Group.

The "articulate women" of the Nation have a great responsibility in this period of national economy to watch that real economy is practiced in places where it will do most good and not harm, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt said in her message to the D. C. Federation of Women's Clubs and the federation members listening in on the radio throughout the country. She spoke at the annual luncheon of the D. C. federation at the Mayflower Hotel yesterday. She warned these women who have the ability to say what they think and the avenue of getting people to listen that economies must be practiced with a due regard to the children of the Nation so as not to find ourselves saddled with a generation where tuberculosis and crime and all other handicaps that go with poor food, poor housing are on the increase.

Mrs. Harvey W. Wiley, president of the D. C. Federation, introduced Mrs. Roosevelt. The invocation was said by Mrs. John W. Frizzell, past president, and the pledge of allegiance to the flag was by Mrs. Thomas H. Paris, chairman of the flag committee. Greetings were given by Mrs. Edgar B. Merit, past president, and Mrs. Eugene B. Lawson, first vice president of the General Federation. A musical program was presented by Emma Redell, soprano, accompanied by Mildred Kolb Schultze and Justin Lawrie, musical director of the Foundry Methodist Church.

Congregationalists Laud Arms Stand

Resolutions commending and thanking President Roosevelt for "his courage and deep wisdom" in appealing to the nations of the world to pledge themselves to a program of world peace through pacific policies were adopted last night by the Washington Association of Congregational Churches, meeting at the Cleveland Park Congregational Church.

The evening meeting was featured by an address by the Rev. Walter C. Hook, of Ingram Memorial Congregational Church, on "The Builder's Need in the Kingdom Task." An address was also made by the Rev. Walter Spooner, of New Jersey.

Addresses were made during the afternoon by Dr. Harry Thomas Stock, of Boston, and Dr. Charles S. Merrill, of New York. A fellowship dinner was held prior to the evening meeting.

Muscle Shoals Measure Approval Deemed Sure

(Associated Press.)

The administration's vast Tennessee Valley-Muscle Shoals development bill last night needed only House approval of a conference agreement and President Roosevelts' signature to become law.

Acting with unprecedented swiftness, the Senate late yesterday approved the conference report composing Senate and House differences. And House Democratic leaders promised it would be taken up in that body today either by unanimous consent or by suspension of the rules.

THOMAS M. HARVEY, REPORTER, EXPIRES

Well-Known Newspaperman Was in Centennial Class of Georgetown U.

Thomas M. Harvey, 63, veteran court reporter for the Evening Star and one of Washington's better known newspapermen, died yesterday at his apartment at 4700 Connecticut avenue.

Mr. Harvey, who had been ill for two months, underwent two operations in March and was believed to be recovering.

Mr. Harvey, known to lawyers, judges and younger newspapermen as "Uncle Tom," covered the courthouse for 40 years and could recall when the members of the present bench of District Supreme Court were young, struggling lawyers.

He entered newspaper work via a legal paper called the Real Estate and Court Record in July, 1891, following his graduation from Georgetown University with an A. B. degree.

He was the son of the late Thomas M. Harvey, founder of Harvey's Restaurant. He received his elementary education in the public schools of Washington and completed the secondary step at Georgetown University. He was a member of the institution's centennial class.

Mr. Harvey's only affiliations were with the Catholic Church. He was a member of the Blessed Sacrament Catholic Church in Chevy Chase and the Holy Name Society.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Katharine B. Harvey; three daughters, Miss Katharine Maurita Harvey, Mrs. Carl J. Bock, of Birmingham, Mich., and Mrs. Vincent D. Callanan, of Lakeland, Fla.; a son, Herbert Noyes Harvey, and two sisters, Mrs. Clara Wheatley, of Chicago, and Mrs. Mae Castell.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 10 a. m. at the Blessed Sacrament Catholic Church, where requiem mass will be said. Interment will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery.

will file a motion for a new trial and sentence may be delayed until the last of next week. Means is already under a 15-year sentence for defrauding Mrs. McLean of $100,000 which he was to use in ransoming the Lindbergh infant.

Mr. Turco's final argument was heard in the morning. He attacked Mr. Rover, saying: "There has been a change of administration in the United States Government. The Democrats are in power, but Rover is not a Democrat. He brought Lindbergh to the stand because he wanted to make an impression, and if he is to leave office, he desired the great publicity that this case would bring him. He gave no thought nor did he care about the broken hearts of the Lindberghs that a reopening of the tragedy would bring."

When Rover closed he declared: "I am not one of the defendants in this case despite the reflections on my character just made to you by Mr. Turco. He said that it was necessary to prove that there was a Lindbergh child. There was only one person in the world," he said, "who could testify that the body of the child found in New Jersey was that of the Lindberghs, and that was Col. Lindbergh himself."

BONUS ARMY RAPS REFORESTATION IDEA

and have never forgotten the war days."

She then sketched war work she had done in Washington and told of later going to the northern front in France, where she visited many hospitals and talked to many wounded soldiers.

Concluding, Mrs. Roosevelt assured the men of her sympathy for them and said, "I never want to see another war."

The First Lady and Col. Howe—who had sat quietly in the roadster while Mrs. Roosevelt walked about the camp with Brady—then motored back to Washington. Mrs. Roosevelt was at the wheel.

The first signs of possible difficulty in evacuating the bonus army from its comfortable quarters at Fort Hunt began to show yesterday after its committee, composed of Brady, Sellers, Mike Thomas, "right wing" leader, and several others, spent an hour at the White House.

Reforestation Is Assailed.

It was after this parley with Col. Howe that Sellers told of the reforestation idea again advanced by the administration.

Sellers, without using any names, said that he had been dealing with persons at the White House who "are pussyfooting and smooth footing." As a murmur of "forced labor" went around the large hall, Sellers took his stand of "to hell with reforestation."

Brady explained to the men that the administration was not averse to the extension of the camp hospitality until Monday morning. He said the administration desired passage of a resolution averring the bonus army's agreement to leave by that time if the extension is granted.

Men Reluctant to Leave.

With many indications that a large group of the men are averse to leaving the cots and food provided by the administration, consideration of the resolution was passed over.

Brady and the other committeeman told the men they couldn't find out much about their chief object in coming to Washington, whether the bonus is going to be paid. It was indicated that considerable discussion will precede passage of the resolution, if such action takes place tomorrow.

Last night Sellers left the camp to engage in a conference here with a number of men described as "left wing" leaders of the American Federation of Labor. Sellers would not reveal the men's identities, but said the agenda of the discussions would look toward the alignment of labor with the veterans on questions of unemployment relief and "forced labor."

The MILWAUKEE ROAD

The Federal Diary

By GEORGE D. RILEY

Above are shown five leaders in the A. F. G. E. milk-rent cost meeting at Central High School this evening. They are, left to right, Thomas O. Fee, president, Postoffice Lodge; John P. Simpson, president, I. C. C. Lodge, and chairman Civic Affairs Committee; Michael D. Schaefer, Navy, and president District Department; Charles E. Ridgeway, corresponding secretary, D. C. Department, and Cecil M. Mears, president, Washington office, Panama Canal Lodge. The meeting is open to the public.

TAKE the case of little Miss Joan Humer, of Newark, N. J., who writes to Commerce:

"I am a pupil of Lincoln School and in 8-A. During our topic work I was to find out about the following:

"(a) King of American manufactured goods that will interest buyers in my city (Newark).

"(b) Kind of goods the city wishes to sell to the United States.

"(c) The best trade routes for American exporters to use from New York to my city.

"(d) A summary of transportation facilities, so American exporters may pack their goods intelligently.

"(e) advice in regard to systems of measurements, coinage and language.

"I would be very grateful to you if you would send me the above information. Also I would greatly appreciate a picture of Roy D. Chapin and biography, with his signature and the latest edition of works of the Department of Commerce."

While Joan doesn't seem to know that Mr. Chapin is no longer Secretary, who knows that some day with women becoming envoys and Congress members and Madame Secretaries hut what Joan or another Joan of Arc may rise and show mere men how to straighten out the tangle into which mere men have maneuvered us?

Today we describe hole No. 10, par 4, of 408 yards, Indian Spring, where the Federal Diary's first annual golf tournament will be held just one week from tomorrow.

Pro George Diffenbaugh tells us that hole No. 10 is another splendid hole, a long drive leaving a long iron shot to an elevated green.

Says George: "A hooked drive will get the player into a trap to the left. Two large yawning traps to the right, another to the left guard the green. This is a plateau green."

Swarmi Fedd has made out a list of minor prizes for the great event. The handicap committee tonight is to put in some more long hours and the general committee meets Friday night to put finishing touches on the detailed arrangements.

THE Federal Diary has united two old cronies. They were employed in the Government Printing Office (old building) 20 years ago. Louis Wolfe held a clerkship in the office of foreman of printing, while Henry J. Frank was a compositor in the composing room. They transferred to different Government departments and had not seen each other for many years. Their portraits appeared in the columns of the Federal Diary; they met in the Diary sanctum, talked of olden days and then went out and had "a sundae on a Monday." Mr. Wolfe is connected with Animal Industry, Agriculture, while Mr. Frank is with Internal Revenue.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT graciously accepted the resignation of David Burnet as Commissioner of Internal Revenue Monday.

David Burnet.

He gave a farewell talk to the thousands of employes in the main lobby of the Internal Revenue Building on Tuesday morning. It was an impressive scene, for Mr. Burnet has been very popular with all the employes of this taxing bureau. The former commissioner will reside in Washington.

Lynn Morris, Patent Office, is passing cigars around. It is a 7-pound baby girl. Both baby and mother are doing very well in the maternity room of the G. W. Hospital.

He's a Scribe

ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF STATE RAYMOND MOLEY'S expressed intention to enter the field of competitive writing as a means of forestalling the harsh effect of the economy act presents a paradox, particularly as he is a high-salaried employe as the average runs. He is serving in exalted Federal office—the ranking "little Cabinet" position.

By virtue of his ready access to information he somewhat gets the scoop on the news fraternity and thus is enabled to utilize such data advantageously for personal profit. Besides his name and office guarantee a market. The proposal sets up a decided departure from sacred American heritages.

The open confession of intent does not soften the blow against ethics.

Pauline Millstein (*), Internal Revenue, who isn't so bad at auction herself, probably won't get a chance to play at the charity bridge tonight in the National Press Building Cafeteria. As chairman of the committee on arrangements, she has toiled like a Trojan these past several weeks and tonight there'll be no respite, what with tickets to be taken up, refreshments to be served, prizes to be awarded, &c.

U. S. Alleges Discrimination in Levying of Import Turnover Tax.

Paris, May 16 (A.P.).—An American protest against alleged tariff discrimination by France in the imposition of the import turnover tax was communicated today to the French government by Norman H. Davis, President Roosevelt's Ambassador-at-large.

The protest, which was presented on instructions from Washington, was delivered at the foreign office late today by Theodore Marriner, counselor of the American embassy.

As an introduction to the protest, Mr. Davis today called on Georges Bonnet, French finance minister, to explain to him Washington's views on the operation of the new tax.

Mr. Davis, it was understood, indicated to the finance minister that the United States is observing with great interest the situation arising out of the tax imposition.

M. Bonnet is understood to have assured Mr. Davis that the French reservation with regard to the world tariff truce applies only to present legislation, and not to future enactments.

Ottawa, May 16 (A.P.).—Warren Delano Robbins, newly appointed Minister of the United States to Canada, formally presented his credentials today to the Governor General of Canada, the Earl of Bessborough, at Rideau Hall.

POLICE NAB BURCH SLAYING SUSPECT

Floyd Brill, 40, Is Arrested in Killing of Mother and Daughter.

Romney, W. Va., May 16 (A.P.).—Arrest of Floyd Brill, 40, for questioning in the slaying of Mrs. C. L. Burch, 65, and her daughter, Esther, 17, was announced by State police.

Officers said they had trailed the man since the bodies were discovered in the Burch home at Bean settlement today.

They said C. L. Burch, proprietor of a store at the Bean settlement, left home early today and that Brill was in the store at the time.

The troopers further stated that the place had been robbed and the two women apparently shot as they sought to prevent the crime.

12 Iowa Farmers Get Bench Paroles

Denison, Iowa, May 16 (A.P.).—Twelve men arrested for rioting at a farm sale here, April 28, pleaded guilty in District court today to charges of contempt of court and resisting service of a court process.

Judge Homer A. Fuller sentenced each defendant to one year in the State penitentiary on the resisting charge, but issued bench paroles.

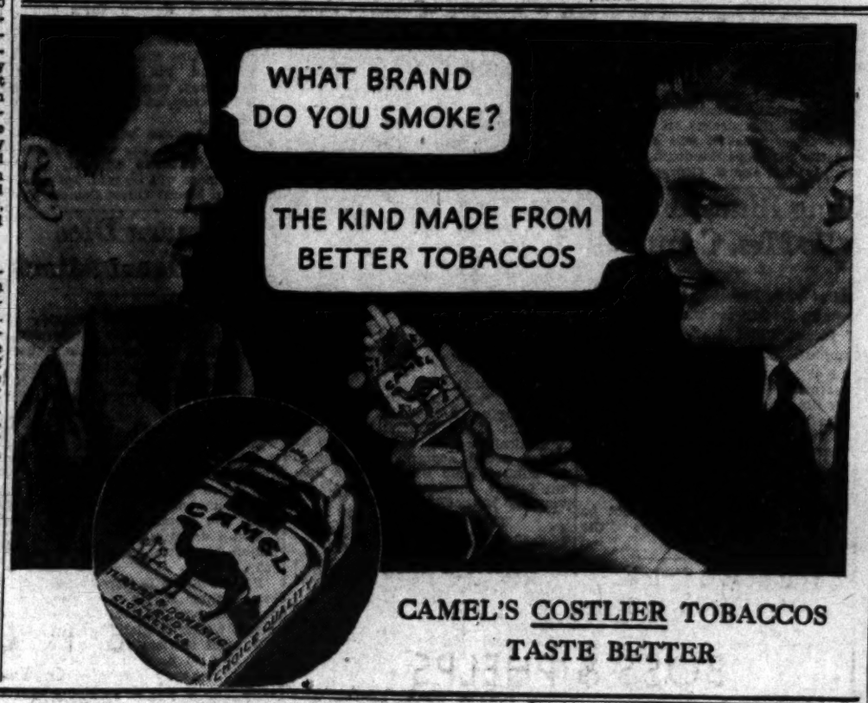
Fines of $50 each and one day's imprisonment in county jail were imposed on the contempt charge. Failure to pay the fine entails an additional 15 days in jail, Judge Fuller decreed. Ten men remain to be tried.

Akron Commander Left $2,666 Estate

Commander Henry Barton Cecil, U. S. N., who lost his life in the crash of the Akron, left an estate of $2,666, it was disclosed in District Supreme Court yesterday when his widow, Mrs. Isa McBean Cecil, filed a petition for letters of administration on her husband's estate.

The estate was made up entirely of personal property. A bank account of $1,466, a $1,000 insurance policy and a $200 brokerage account made up the estate.

"Worthless stocks," once valued at $14,766, and debts owed Commander Cecil were listed in the estate.



CAMEL'S COSTLIER TOBACCOS TASTE BETTER

Henry Ford
Dearborn, Mich.

May 15, 1933

Time and again I am told—by my own organization and by others—that I penalize myself by quality.

Friendly critics protest our putting into the Ford V-8 what they call "twenty-year steel." They say such quality is not necessary; the public does not expect it; and that the public does not know the difference anyway.

But I know the difference.

I know that the car a man sees is not the car he drives—he drives the car which the engineer sees. The car which is seen, comprises beauty of design, color and attractive accessories,—all desirable, of course. The best evidence that we think so is that they are all found on the Ford V-8.

But these are not the car. The car proper, which is the basis of all the rest, is the type of engine and its reliability; the structure of chassis and body, ruggedly durable; the long thought and experiment given to safety factors; the steady development of comfort, convenience and economy. These make the car.

A car can be built that will last two or three years. But we have never built one. We want the basic material of our car to be as dependable the day it is discarded as the day it is bought. Ford cars built 15 years ago are still on the road. It costs more to build a durable car—but two items we do not skimp are cost and conscience. A great many things could "get by"—the public would never know the difference. But we would know.

The new Ford V-8 is a car that I endorse without any hesitancy. I know what is in it. I trust our whole thirty years' reputation with it. It is even better than our previous V-8. It is larger, more rugged and mechanically a better job all round.

I readily say this in an advertisement because I know the car will back it up.

FOR WORLD PEACE.

President Roosevelt's message to the sovereigns and heads of government is in reality a message to the people of the world. It is a document that compels hundreds of millions to think; and its warning of the necessity of world co-operation is calculated to stir all nations to action.

Obviously the message is intended to dissuade the dictator of Germany from giving utterance today to such language as would destroy hope of conciliation and co-operation at the disarmament and economic conferences.

Two proposals in Mr. Roosevelt's program directly affect Germany and may therefore elicit comment from Herr Hitler in his important pronouncement today. One of these is that while steps for elimination of offensive armament are being taken, no nation shall increase armaments above the limitations of treaty obligations. The other is that the nations shall engage in a pact of non-aggression and reaffirm their obligations to reduce armaments, and, provided this obligation is faithfully executed by all, no nation shall send an armed force across its frontiers.

The first proposal, if accepted, would temporarily silence the German demand for relaxation of treaty restrictions upon its armaments; and the second is intended to reassure Germany that it would not need to fear aggression so long as the process of disarmament reduction is going on.

Unless favorable responses to President Roosevelt's proposal are made with unprecedented celerity by the important nations, and particularly by France and Great Britain, it does not seem probable that the message will satisfy Germany. Herr Hitler may still be in doubt as to the attitude of the neighboring powers, both as to their own disarmament and the increase of German armaments.

At this hour it appears that the success or failure of the disarmament conference, upon which depends the success or failure of the economic conference, will be determined today by Herr Hitler in Berlin.

Many inferences are drawn from the text of the Roosevelt message. Some of them are palpably erroneous, as for instance the idea that Mr. Roosevelt, by addressing the head of the Soviet state, thereby extends recognition to Russia. It is a long step from inclusion of Russia in a round-robin address to the nations meeting at Geneva and the establishment of diplomatic and consular relations, the making of a treaty of amity and commerce, &c. There is no indication that Mr. Roosevelt is paving the way to diplomatic relations with Soviet Russia.

Another inference drawn from the message is that Mr. Roosevelt will be drawn into the position of favoring abolition of battleships as offensive weapons if the nations should proceed to use his proposal as a basis of disarmament. But the question of naval armament is already covered by treaty, and the principle of relativity is in effect. It is generally held that world peace is not menaced so long as the great naval powers agree to maintain their relative strength. The danger is that some of them may fall below their treaty strength and thereby disturb the equilibrium. The United States is falling behind in this respect, and would contribute to world stability if it would build up its Navy to the strength fixed by treaty. The danger of war inspired by the temptation to take advantage of temporary naval inferiority would be removed.

Mr. Roosevelt makes no mention of a consultation pact. It may be inferred that if the nations should agree at Geneva to a non-aggression pact they would include in the treaty a provision for mutual consultation in case of violation or threatened violation of the pact.

The protection of nationals in a foreign country would not be denied under a non-aggression pact, for the reason that outrages calling for the sending of Marines, for example, would constitute a violation of the pact and thereby absolve the United States from its obligation not to send armed forces abroad. The non-aggression pact, like the Kellogg pact, would not abolish the inherent right to self-defense against attack or aggression.

The proposals made by President Roosevelt are well worthy of consideration by the nations represented at Geneva. His emphasis upon the necessity of a world agreement relating to disarmament and security as a basis for economic co-operation is very timely. The world economic conference can not succeed unless the nations obtain some assurance of safety. They are employing offensive economic weapons in a bewildered attempt to find security. They will not yield the financial returns resulting from tariffs, currency manipulation, &c., so long as they need the money with which to arm themselves against dreaded attack.

President Roosevelt has performed a world service by concentrating attention upon the necessity of co-operation for mutual confidence and security as a prelude to co-operation for mutual recovery and prosperity. If the nations will not mutually bind themselves to avoid aggression it will be a waste of time to ask them to avoid economic rivalries for their mutual welfare.

UP TO THE SENATE.

Considerable improvement has been made in the provisions of the independent offices supply bill relating to personnel, but they are still far from satisfactory. Instead of striking a straight course toward justice for Government workers the Senate appropriations committee was inclined to compromise. As a result there is danger that some of the vicious features of the House bill may be restored before it is finally sent to the White House.

Even though a subcommittee eliminated the clause which would compel the Civil Service Commission to reduce personnel according to the State quota system, the full committee revived this attack upon the merit system in a different form. It would have dismissals made "with regard both to efficiency and to apportionment of appointments by States." The effect of such language is to leave the intention of Congress in doubt. Dismissals can not be made on the basis of efficiency and the basis of geographical quotas too. One plan or the other must prevail. Presumably the commission would use the efficiency measuring rod, under the language of the Senate appropriations committee, and allow quotas to be considered only when the efficiency of the employes in question might be equal. But the Hayden amendment leaves that in doubt.

This entire provision should be eliminated. It is absurd to apply the quota system in making dismissals. If some employes must be separated from the service it should be those who are the least valuable to the Government.

Inclusion of the privilege of voluntary retirement after 30 years of service for the Government does not make any less objectionable the scheme to force retirement of employes while they are still rendering efficient service. Let the Senate give employes the full right to decide whether they will continue working after 30 years, if they are still in good health and capable of doing the work required.

Government workers have many friends in the Senate. Now is the time for these friends to come forward and defeat these attacks upon the merit system. Only a determined stand on the part of the Senate can eliminate the obnoxious provisions from the bill.

KEEP UP THE NAVY.

Confused counsel regarding the proposed tax to amortize public works bonds may result in failure to increase the Navy. The order to place one-third of all combatant naval vessels and naval aircraft in "rotating reserve commission" will be effective from July 1. The enlisted personnel will be reduced from 79,700 to 77,000, which means that vessels in commission will have 77 per cent of their authorized enlisted strength.

The laying up of vessels and reduction of personnel are economy measures with which the public has no fault to find, always provided that the Navy is kept up to date and ready within a reasonable time to go into full commission. Unless new construction is provided for the economy move now going into effect will seriously impair the strength and readiness of the Navy.

The most useful and economical method of spending money for public works as a means of promoting employment is by building naval vessels. The material entering into naval construction is drawn from all parts of the country and from many industries. Employment is stimulated indirectly in a thousand directions, while the work in navy yards or shipbuilding yards furnishes additional direct employment. Naval vessels must be forthcoming if the Navy is not to disintegrate. Considerable construction is necessary in order to replace aging vessels now in commission, to say nothing of increase of the Navy.

The disturbed state of the world warns the United States to look after its defenses. Several wars are in progress, and greater wars are threatened. None of these wars involves the United States at this juncture, but war spreads, like fire, and the experience of 1917, only sixteen years ago, is a stern notice that distant wars may involve this country in hostilities against its will. Americans are coming under fire in China as a result of the Japanese advance upon Peiping. This country will avoid a clash in the Orient by all honorable means, but it is conceivable that the hostilities may drag many nations into war.

Common prudence requires the United States to maintain its Navy, reasonably ready, reasonably modern, and reasonably strong in comparison with foreign fleets. The tendency during several years has been to weaken the Navy by neglecting new construction for replacement, and by reducing personnel. This is a dangerous tendency, which there is reason to believe will be corrected by President Roosevelt if Congress will give him means. Hence it is hoped that the public works program will include provision for naval construction, and that Congress will provide for taxation to make this provision effective.

MEANS-WHITAKER CONVICTION.

Gaston B. Means and Norman T. Whitaker stand convicted of conspiracy with intent to defraud Mrs. Evalyn Walsh McLean of $35,000 in connection with the Lindbergh kidnaping. Thus ends another chapter of that appalling crime. The criminals who sought to profit from the work of fiends have been brought to justice, even though the fiends are still at large.

The jury gave no weight to the imaginative feat performed by Means for the entertainment of spectators in the court. When the jury had listened to the evidence this fabric of falsehoods was properly appraised at zero. Means was caught in his own web, and drew in also his co-worker in crime. He will have plenty of time behind prison bars to concoct sensational lies for his own amusement.

The crime of Means and Whitaker was only less dastardly than the kidnaping and murder. It arouses the resentment and ire of every honest citizen. The whole country will be glad to see Gaston Means and his fellow conspirator go to their punishment.

By no means will this dramatic chapter in the Lindbergh kidnaping case be the last. The world-wide search goes forward. The public hopes to have the satisfaction of seeing the murderers of the child meet their well-deserved doom.

WORK FOR AN ARMY.

A large contingent of the men of the Conservation Corps of New York State will be posted on a battle front 250 miles long, extending from Long Island Sound northward through the Hudson River border counties to the Canadian border, to fight the advance of the dreaded gypsy moth. Nearly 4,000 of the emergency woodsmen will be required to defend this line in a determined effort to stop the westward spread of both the gypsy and the browntail moth.

A dozen or more camps on State and private lands will be established as headquarters for this undertaking, which will cover a zone comprising some 8,000 square miles with an average width of about 25 miles. In this barrier area the woodsmen, in connection with their forestry work, will use sprayers and other destructive methods to eradicate the moths and their eggs to prevent breeding.

The moths have done great damage throughout the New England States. They have marched steadily westward since the gypsy moth was introduced from France through Boston shipping. The invasion has entered New York, and the Conservation Corps offers the first opportunity to combat the pests on such an extensive scale. Both the Federal and State agricultural departments consider the projected work of the greatest importance.

Both local and Government efforts have been directed against the moths in the New England States for years, but ever since the gypsy pest arrived, more than 60 years ago, it has continued to spread, leaving denuded and dead trees behind. New York's efforts will be directed to stopping the migration at the Hudson.

POPPIES BLOOM AGAIN.

This week as Memorial Day approaches everywhere throughout the Nation the "Buddy Poppy" appears. There is no division of opinion regarding the deserving value of the relief work that their sale provides for deserving veterans. Conducted under the auspices of the Veterans of Foreign Wars this annual contribution to such a just cause is one that is never begrudged.

The poppies that are now being offered are made by disabled veterans in Government hospitals, who toil through the year to produce the millions of scarlet emblems. To avoid imposture every legitimate poppy bears a copyrighted green label which is assurance that all the funds contributed will be used exclusively for relief work. The fund supplies some of the needed appliances so necessary for injured veterans, and greater call than ever has been made for those who are in need.

Every purchaser of a Buddy Poppy can have the satisfaction of knowing that the inflexible rule of the V. F. W. forbids the expenditure of these contributions for anything but relief work.

France was so delighted by the tariff truce sponsored by President Roosevelt that she slapped on some new import turnover taxes especially aimed at American exports.

The Soviet is flattered to get a note from Washington, but it may not be considered official because it didn't have Senator Borah's name on it.

The Roosevelt message to the world was, of course, penned for the special benefit of Dictator Hitler. But Japan must have read it with interest.

Al Smith won't run for mayor of New York. Al was four years ahead of time once, and he's not going to let it happen again.

Slight Interruptions.

POST HASTE.

Herr Hitler probably is annoyed at having to make some revisions in his text after Mr. Roosevelt beat him to it.

It would be a sarcastic synchronization for the Japanese confab in Washington to start the day the Japanese army bombed the American Legation in Peiping.

With Japan's latest action in China it becomes a question as to whether the American Executive can afford to treat with a representative of the Tokyo government on the basis of faithful observance of treaties.

The President will let Congress take its choice of taxes to service the public works program. Is this constitutional deference or avoidance of the inevitable sales tax?

One-third of the United States Navy is to be laid up, when we are already far behind in keels that should be laid down.

Hitler has become so accustomed to telling Germany that it is going to be hard for him to discuss things with the world.

Will Rogers as the unintentional means of defeating justice would be a prize joke on the great jester.

We're off the gold standard to make prices go up. England is also off and has provided billions for manipulation to prevent a rise of prices. Have we all the necessary chips for this game?

The President's explanation to Europe as to how airplanes can fly over border defenses indicates that he has noted the ineffectiveness of the Great Wall.

The Executive suggestion for a pact of nonaggression contains a hint that the Kellogg pact may suffer the fate of Hoover Dam and be renamed.

It is to be hoped that Herr Hitler will at least refrain from advising neighbors on debt payments.

JUST FOLKS

EXPERIENCE.

My father told me that his father said:
"Of fortune's changes one must live in dread."
Gray-bearded, old and trouble-scarred and grave,
Twice he had lost what he had hoped to save.
But times were different; grown to be a man,
He took his chances when a boom began.
Riches seemed near. He heard it said by men:
"Those old-time panics can't occur again!
This pleasant prospect now is here to stay.
Prices of goods are soaring every day.
Markets are stabilized"—and then pell-mell
Something occurred and all old values fell.

My father warned me: "Son," said he, "beware!
Time was I thought myself secure from care.
I laughed at timid people, old and gray,
And on to fortune plunged my head-long way.
Then something happened. You may not recall,
But times were very hard when you were small."

Then came the boom. Caught in its surge and swing,
I heard men say: "This is a lasting thing!"
And I forgot my father's good advice.
And just as he did I have paid the price.
So will our sons do when good times return,
Like men long dead, like us, they'll live and learn.

The Water That Fed Pharaoh's Gardens Falls Somewhere Today as Rain.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

FREQUENTLY the truth for which men search is hidden by the words they use in an effort to define it.

We say of certain things that they have been destroyed, but science knows that nothing is destroyed. It is only changed.

A cube of ice inside an air-tight jar can be changed to water and again changed to gas, so that it seems to have disappeared; but every atom that composed it remains inside the jar.

Consider, then, the universe in which we live. Whether or not it has a limit is beyond human understanding. Our minds can not conceive of a universe that extends to certain limits and there comes to an end. What could lie beyond? It is like asking ourselves what was here before the creation. To ponder over it is to invite madness.

But this much seems logical and clear. No matter when or how the universe was created or came into being, it included within its boundaries the germ of everything that now exists.

How could anything new be added to the universe if there is no outside place from which it could come? How could anything be taken from the universe if there is no other place to which it could be removed?

There could be and is constant change. Stars could divide and planets form; the form and nature of animals and plants could be altered by changing conditions; but somewhere in the universe, on earth or in the space between suns and planets, there would remain every atom and electron and every capacity and possibility that was inclosed within the universe at its creation.

The atom that once was part of a mammoth's tusk would still remain in use—as part of an ancient tree, perhaps, or as part of a new machine.

If that is true, and logic insists that it must be true, what shall you say of life?

Can life be destroyed if nothing else can be? Is it reasonable to suppose that life, the miraculous seed of the universe, is alone unprotected by universal law?

No man knows what life is, but it is a power, an energy, an electric something that is part of the equipment of the universe. To what place, then, can it disappear?

In the balanced economy of the Creator's plan, nothing is destroyed or wasted. And if the immortal atom is used again and again throughout the ages, why doubt that the more vital something called life remains somewhere in the universe to serve the Creator's plans again?

POLITICAL COMMENT

Roosevelt's Powers.

Montreal Star.

It is anybody's guess how much of his extraordinary powers and his extraordinary plans Franklin Roosevelt will use, or even intends to use. The probabilities lie between two extremes. There are those who hope that he will employ practically none of the radical expedients like inflation which lie to hand. In the West, particularly, there are seers who have visions of Roosevelt devaluating the dollar, printing new money, coining silver and easing credit all at one fell swoop—an obviously overdrawn picture. The one alternative appears as unlikely as the other, and it seems reasonable to hope that Roosevelt will experiment just so far as pressure from Congress and the country compels him, while using his extraordinary powers and prestige to keep the innovations within bounds, so far as possible.

Test for the Country.

Louisville Courier-Journal.

In the case of some of the emergency legislation which President Roosevelt has piloted through Congress, it is the country itself rather than the administration that is put to the test; success or failure for these measures depends primarily on the spirit of the people. Particularly is this true of the Wagner-Lewis bill, now bearing the President's signature, which provides half a billion dollars for direct unemployment relief.

This huge fund, to be administered by the Reconstruction Corporation through a special agent, falls into two separate parts. Half, or $250,000,000, is to be appropriated on the basis of one dollar of Federal aid for each three dollars put up by the State. The other half of the fund has no strings tied to it, and is destined for outright gifts to such States as can not otherwise meet their unemployment problems.

Perfect Mismanagement.

St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

The story of the Harriman bank's mismanagement is a corker. The public would be shocked if it had any shocks left in its portfolio. Here was the president of the bank, James B. Harriman, buying stock of the bank, first, for himself, second, for the Harriman Securities Co., and, third, for a pool in which 25 of the bank's 27 directors participated. Finding himself short of funds, Harriman financed those purchases by borrowing money illegally from the bank's bond department, and when the bank examiner came around he concealed the loans by dipping into the bank's deposits.

That is the substance of the testimony to the Senate Committee of Henry B. Cooper, conservator of the bank, who succeeded Harriman as president. Cooper explained to the committee that "Harriman didn't specifically 'thieve' the money," but he acknowledged he did not defend the practice. To the contrary, "I condemn it from top to bottom." Further, he was not aware that the other directors in the pool knew of Harriman's irregularities, but, under questioning, he admitted that none of the "poolers" had put up any money.

The Poor Rich.

Kansas City Star.

Another important drawback to Senator Thomas' inflation plan to "take 200 billion dollars away from the rich and give it to the poor" is that the rich haven't got 200 billion dollars. There is that much wealth in the country, all right, but a good many of the persons who share in its ownership are very poor.

Glad Tidings.

Indianapolis News.

A Madison nail and tack factory has gone on a 10-hour-a-day schedule, indicating that the country is getting down to brass tacks.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

REPORT ON MOTHER'S DAY.

I hurried home for Mother's Day—
'Twould cheer her up, thought I;
I'd drive her sorrows all away—
To comfort her I'd try.

"How lonely must all mothers be!"
I thought as I rode home;
"Their children gone so thoughtlessly
In distant towns to roam.

"How fine," I thought, "to comfort her
And kiss her silv'ry hair!"—
But when I came there was no stir—
For mother was not there.

"Oh, where is ma?" I asked my dad;
He answered soft and low,
And with an accent very sad,
"My boy, how should I know?

"She must be playing golf; methinks
I heard your mother say
She would be out upon the links
To play her match today.

"But she may not be there, of course;
It's very hard to tell
She may be out upon her horse
Ariding in the dell.

"She may be on an ocean flight
To London or Paree;
She spoke of one the other night,
Or so it seems to me.

"It's possible she's at the shore,
Although the chance is slim;
I know she had a booking for
Her springtime harbor swim.

"I'm sorry, boy," my dad did say,
"But I must leave you, son;
I have a date today to play
Some golf at half-past one.

"I qualified with 84—
It's rather high for me;
I ought to get a better score—
I'm only eighty-three!"

He soon was off and far away
And I was home alone!
I took a train and didn't stay—
Next year I'll telephone!

TWEET! TWEET!

So much has happened during his two months in office that President Roosevelt would probably like to fly backward, like Fred Allen's famous bird, not because he wants to see where he's going, but to see where he's been.

John D. Rockefeller, back from Florida, violated an old tradition by failing to distribute any dimes after church at Lakewood, N. J. That's throwing cold water on the talk that the slump is over.

Grischa Goluboff, 10-year-old musical prodigy, has been ordered by the Hitler regime to return a Guarnerius violin loaned to him in Germany. Of course, in view of the nature of the instrument, Master Goluboff can hardly say that when he accepted the violin there were no strings on it.

And, after all, it might have been a harp.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Legionnaire Somers Says Service Men Are Opposed to Communist Bonus March.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Please be advised that from personal contacts with veteran organizations in some 30 odd States, I can certify that they are in no way favorable to this Communist and Communist-promoted bonus march. If our Government cares to allow such men as the Workers Ex-Service Men's League to parade though those historical streets of Washington, and to invade peaceful hamlets and cities in order to present their impractical theories at the Nation's Capital, I am more than positive there will occur armed clashes with true former service men and citizens still endowed with real patriotism.

Your paper can render a great service if you will discourage such characters as Emanuel Levin.

Working singlehanded from this part of the country, we have gotten the Texas, Nevada and Utah American Legions protesting such a march as the one now starting.

Please be advised that this is written with no wish for publicity. There are many throughout the Nation who know me, so you use my name. These words inclosed are the truth, and they may help a needed cause.

MODERN PERSIA.

Ten years ago a trip through Persia meant travel by a slow and lumbering caravan from Bagdad through the high passes of the Zagros Mountains, over roads that were scarcely more than trails. Today the length and breadth of Persia is spanned by a network of fine motor roads which make possible a comfortable trip of 2,000 miles to the chief cities in three weeks. Though built without modern machinery, the roads have been well and durably laid, with foundations of crushed stone.

Roads have made available to tourists the city of Isfahan, the jewel of Persia. The beautiful palaces and mosques of the city were mostly built by Shah Abas, 1588-1629, and are still in good condition. New regulations have opened these magnificent examples of Persian art to visitors, without requiring special permission of the shah. Isfahan remains today typical of ancient Persian splendors.

Teheran, the capital, is the embodiment of modern Persia. Not unlike some American Western cities which grew up in an oil boom, Teheran has wooden buildings and wide streets, copied from Western models. Its shops are more European than oriental, and the people dress like Europeans, with few veiled women to be seen. It is a city of embassies and government buildings, with a social life of European type.

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

VISCOUNT KIKUJIRO ISHII, special representative of the Japanese government, who is on his way to Washington to confer with President Roosevelt, will speak over the Columbia Broadcasting System upon his arrival in this country tonight at 10:15 o'clock. Viscount Ishii, former Ambassador to the United States, will face the microphone in San Francisco.

Mrs. Margaret Hopkins Worrell, president of the League of American Civil Service, will speak over WJSV tonight at 8:15 o'clock on "The Efficiency Rating System of Government Employes."

H. V. Kaltenborn, news commentator, is in Washington for a brief stay preparatory to sailing for London to cover the forthcoming economic conference for the radio audience.

Olga Albani, Spanish songbird heard in person in Washington last week, was checking upon the references of a new maid. "Is she steady?" she asked her last mistress over the phone. "Say," exclaimed the lady, "if that girl was any steadier, she'd be motionless."

An additional Betty Boop show with Mae Questel, known as "Betty Boop Frolics," is a new feature each Wednesday night.

The idea of the program was worked out by those featured in the cast, Mae Questel; Red Pepper Sam, the "Frog," and Vic Irwin, orchestra leader, whose novelty arrangements are a feature of many animated cartoons. The new program is heard each Wednesday over WRC at 8:15 p. m., while the Friday Betty Boop show will continue at its usual time, 5:30 p. m.

A SAGA of family life, treating with sympathetic humor the trials and problems of today's young men and girls and their parents, will begin tonight over WRC at 8:30 o'clock, under the title of "One Man's Family."

The new serial will come to radio audiences from the N. B. C. studios in San Francisco. Although the series has been a popular air feature over West Coast stations for more than a year, the new Nation-wide broadcasts will take up the family's story at the beginning.

The clash between conservative parents and their liberal-minded offspring, the result of the social revolution since the war, is the theme of "One Man's Family." In addition to Henry and Fanny Barbour, the parents, the family consists of Paul, a war veteran who represents a definite element in society today; Hazel, the elder sister, who was brought up under the old parental authority; 19-year-old twins, representing the new happy-go-lucky freedom of youth, and Jack, 14, finding his way through the uncharted field of adolescence.

Aside to Senator Capper, of Kansas: You make me blush, senator.

Several radio celebs are included in the list of guest conductors for the summer series of the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra. They are: Hans Kindler, Howard Barlow, David Mendoza, Erno Rappe, Eugene Ormandy and Alexander Smallens.

THE Marine Band Symphony Orchestra will be on the air for its first evening concert tonight (WMAL, 8:35 o'clock).

Phil Cook, the famous radio family, believes in doing as much of his shows himself as is possible. For that reason there isn't even an announcer on his program (WMAL, 7:45 p. m.).

Phil does the announcing, acts all the parts and even provides what applause is necessary. The reactions of the studio audience are not allowed to go out over the air. Andy Sannella plays eight or ten instruments on the broadcast, and Cook does the rest.

The rest which Cook does includes writing all the songs, both words and music, which doesn't allow him much rest of any other kind. He presents one brand-new melody each week on his Monday night program, and by the following Wednesday he's figured out the words for it. Then on the programs he plays half a dozen instruments which Sannella doesn't find time to handle.

"Radio Joe and the Budget Boys" will have Bob Boken, infielder of the Washington baseball team, as their guest star tonight.

GUY LOMBARDO and His Royal Canadians, with Burns and Allen, will add pep to the WJSV program at 8:30 o'clock.

When Eddie Cantor recently withdrew from the air in favor of the talking cameras he predicted that the well for gags was fast running dry and that the radio comedian who was dependent solely upon gags was on his way out.

The invasion of the topical jokester, who smilingly holds the mirror up to current events, is an indication that the tide is already turning; the disappearance of the "stooge" or straight man is another evidence that the gag has had its day. Cantor has already departed from the scene, leaving Bert Lahr to carry on. When the Baron and Benny sign off late in June, Ed Wynn will have the stage practically to himself, for his present contract provides for programs up to next October.

Mischa Levitzki will begin a series tonight at 8:30 o'clock over the WEAF network, and will be heard at the same hour in three subsequent midweek broadcasts. His program follows: Sonata, G minor (first movement), (Schumann); "Spring Song" (Mendelssohn), "Ecossaises" (Beethoven), waltz, C-sharp minor (Chopin), and "Marche Militaire" (Schubert-Tausig).

Channon Collinge will present act I of the Gilbert and Sullivan operetta, "Yeoman of the Guard," during the broadcast of Light Opera Gems, tonight at 9:45 o'clock over WJSV and a Nation-wide Columbia network. A former pupil of Sir Arthur Sullivan, Collinge is recognized as one of the leading interpreters of these unique masterpieces.

"WOODROW WILSON" will be the subject of Fred Essary this afternoon over WJSV at 3:45 o'clock in the last of the series of broadcasts in connection with the twenty-fifth anniversary celebration of the National Press Club. Mr. Essary will be introduced by Don Craig, sr.

John P. Medbury not only writes his own twice-weekly revue, but produces a part of the material for Burns and Allen, for George (the Grik) Givot and Mandy Lou in Fred Waring's show, for his own talkie laugh-o-logs and for a daily column.

He had a close shave recently. Usually billed as the "master without ceremonies," his revue narrowly missed being ceremonies without Master Medbury when John locked himself between floors of the building five minutes before his broadcast. After a last-minute rehearsal with his wife, Medbury decided to walk up rear fire stairs to the studio two floors above, instead of waiting for the elevator. The lock clicked behind them and the pair frantically ran up and down 22 flights before a startled porter released them on the twelfth floor and summoned an express car.

Senora Ortiz Tirado, former tenor of Mexico's National Opera Company, now featured on the networks, will be guest of honor at a luncheon of the Pan-American Medical Association in New York.

A portion of the luncheon, which will include an address by Fernando Gonzalez y Roa, Mexican Ambassador to the United States, will be broadcast over WRC at 12 o'clock noon.

The luncheon is in honor of Senor Tirado's accomplishments as a surgeon, rather than as an operatic or radio singer. A graduate of the National University of Mexico, Tirado is said to rank as one of the republic's leading surgeons.

Four Baby Carriages And Gas Range Wanted

The District of Columbia Chapter of the American Red Cross, 1730 E street northwest, has issued an urgent appeal for four baby carriages and one gas range for families of destitute former service men who are being cared for by the chapter.

Those wishing to donate the muchneeded articles are requested to call National 1910, branch 243, and they will be called for, the chapter announced.

Final Meeting at Art Forum.

The final meeting of the season of the session of the International Art Forum will be held Friday at 8:30 p. m. at the Carlton Hotel. Plans for the 1933-34 season will be announced.

Jim Browning, world heavyweight champion wrestler, boasts a flashing array of gold teeth. The other night he was playing leap frog with some rival pachyderm in a New Jersey ring, and every time he opened his mouth the arena lights reflected the gold like a sunset at sea.

An irreverent fan in a front seat called out: "Hey, Jim, better keep your mouth closed or the government will get you for hoarding."

Award for Glee Club Tonight.

The American University Men's Glee Club, Harlan Randall, director, winners of the Senior Choral competition, will receive the award tonight at a special performance in the Fox Theater. The club has won first place in this competition for three consecutive years.

A New Yorker At Large

By MARK BARRON.

NEW YORK—Among other swains who have spoken tender thoughts to blond Paulette Goddard, with whose name that of Charles Chaplin is linked romatically, is a fairly well known fiction writer.

The manner in which he met her was a tour de force as fascinating as anything he had ever imagined for one of his novels. Dining by himself in a Miami Beach hotel he was pleasantly startled when the Hollywood pretty came in and sat at a nearby table. Immediately he began to concoct plans to become acquainted with her.

To The Rescue.

Being a well-mannered fellow, he was quite at a loss for a moment until a waiter stepped up to his table and placed in front of him a huge slice of birthday cake with a candle atop it. In another corner of the room celebrating his birthday was George Wright, the "father" of baseball, and he had sent the cake over to his writer friend.

The ingenious author immediately sent the cake and candle on to Miss Goddard. Surprised, she looked up, smiled and said: "This is delightful. But how did you known today is my birthday?"

P. S.—The author had presence of mind not to explain that it was also Wright's birthday.

It can be worn on either side with equal protection. Try it. Buy it at any drug, dry goods, or department store today.

The Meanderer

Searches for Graduation Frocks—Learns of Rejuvenating Skin Treatment for the Mature Woman.

Telephone questions on The Meanderer's column to The Washington Post, National 4205, Extention 29; or address The Meanderer, The Washington Post, inclosing self-addressed, stamped envelope for reply.

Peeks into a corner room in one of Washington's fascinating shops—a corner where only the things of indubitable taste are shown—gave the Meanderer a very good idea of what this year's girl graduate is wanting.

A lovely full-length embroidered organdy gown with high standing ruchings about the neckline, and ruchings forming short cap sleeves, worn over a pale yellow slip—the very gown featured in the Washington Post last Sunday as a beautiful new fashion—was sold to a girl graduate finishing her work at an important Washington girls' school.

Contrasted in price and in all its lines and effect to the gown just mentioned is another gown, equally lovely for graduation, shown in the same exclusive corner, for $19.75. It has a high neckline, a graceful shoulder cape effect, and is made of triple sheer crepe.

Starched chiffon in filmy white with many vertically placed ruffllings of fluted maline makes another picturesque graduation gown. Many of the gowns showing are adaptable for formal or informal evening wear after their first all-important purpose is served.

All the dressier types of frocks for graduation mentioned above were from the corner display room on the shop's fourth floor. Up two floors higher in the same shop one finds more frocks of many kinds, many of them in lower prices, a number of attractive frocks being just $7.95! In this department, devoted to the needs of the junior miss, there are frocks suitable for both the high school graduate and her young junior high school sister, or even for the little sister needing the proper dress for confirmation. For the junior high school graduate the Meanderer liked a sheer little white point desprit gown tagged only $7.95. And a dotted dimity in size 12 had only pleated ruffles and hemstitching for trimming and was girlishly charming. Likewise, a silk matelasse cape style frock for the junior miss who likes simple things—or whose school insists upon simple things—should have a definite stamp of approval. It costs $10.

A white crepe jacket frock for $10.95 is showing in an F street specialty shop, where many graduates are choosing their gowns. The jacket to the frock has the attractive new knife-pleated sleeves. A conservative frock there has a daytime neckline with jabot and short frilled sleeves. In this department it is not hard to find a suitable graduation gown for $5.

Dashing new arrivals in the specialty shop just referred to are sheer white mousseline de soie gowns with formal necklines for graduation or evening wear, accompanied by short jackets in checkered silk gingham patterns. This dashing new gown with its jacket costs only $9.

Mothers who are wanting to rejuvenate a bit for daughter's graduation festivities, or for a wedding in the family in June; or any mature women who naturally want to preserve their right to loveliness will want some new liquid preparations for treatment of face, neck, hands and arms one shop has to offer.

The liquids are produced after exhaustive medical research by a renowned chemist. They are not the ordinary "beatuy treatment." One of the liquids so helpful is for circulation stimulation, the base of all skin rejuvenation. Another is for nourishing skins and preventing a dried, crepy look bound to come to the mature skin which is neglected. The treatment with these liquids is simpler than almost any beatuy treatment the Meanderer has encountered in Washington shops.

The nourishing cream of this type is said to contain food values taken from egg yolks. No massage is suggested in the treatments—only gentle pressure. Those who investigate this new kind of rejuvenation material may be interested, too, in reducing lotions produced by the same chemist and said to be effective in surprising degree. A refreshing mineral matter for the bath, not a bath salt and not perfumed, also from the same chemist, will give extraordinary stimulating and refreshing effect.

CREATING AN ENTRY.

THE question of entries and re-entries in the closed and Dummy hands is often one upon which the success of a contract depends. Sometimes careless early play by Declarer comes back to plague him in the later rounds, and he finds impossible the completion of a contract that careful planning and perfect timing of the order in which tricks are taken would have guaranteed.

The importance of this question is illustrated by the following hand, played recently in the experts' room at Crockford's Club, New York.

South dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

	♠ A 9 7 5 ♡ A K 10 8 7 3 ◇ 4 2 ♣ 2
♠ Q 10 4 ♡ 2 ◇ K Q J 9 8 ♣ Q J 10 4	N W E S	♠ 3 ♡ Q J 9 5 ◇ 10 7 5 ♣ 9 8 6 5 3
	♠ K J 8 6 2 ♡ 6 4 ◇ A 6 3 ♣ A K 7

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1♠	2◇	3♡	Pass
4NT	Pass	6♠	Pass
Pass	Pass

The bidding on the part of South was entirely too strong. There had been no agreement upon the suits. South had only meager support for North's heart bid and knew nothing, except by inference, about what kind of support North had for him. North also can not escape blame on the bidding because the Forcing Takeout has not the honor tricks to justify it.

However, let the bidding pass. The interest in the hand centers in the manner in which the Declarer created an additional entry-card into the Dummy.

The Opening lead was the diamond King. South won with the Ace and took two rounds of trumps, finding that he must lose a trick in the trump suit. Obviously, the slam is a laydown if the heart suit break 3-2, but if there are four hearts with East the Dummy has not sufficient entry-cards to establish the suit. However, South can create an entry in the Dummy by leading the second round of hearts from his own hand. Therefore, to the fourth trick he laid down the heart King and returned to his own hand by leading Dummy's singleton club. Both high clubs were then cashed. Dummy's remaining diamond being discarded. Next, South laid down his remaining heart, winning with the Ace in Dummy. West discarding a diamond. This play was the one that decided the success of the contract. The heart 3 was now led from Dummy, and West could not prevent the making of the Slam. As a matter of fact, South ruffed with the 6 and West refused to overruff. South now led a diamond, ruffed in the Dummy and returned to his own hand by ruffing the fourth round of hearts, establishing the suit in Dummy. West was helpless and, realizing the situation, overruffed, but the contract was safe, due to careful planning and the creation of an additional entry in the Dummy hand.

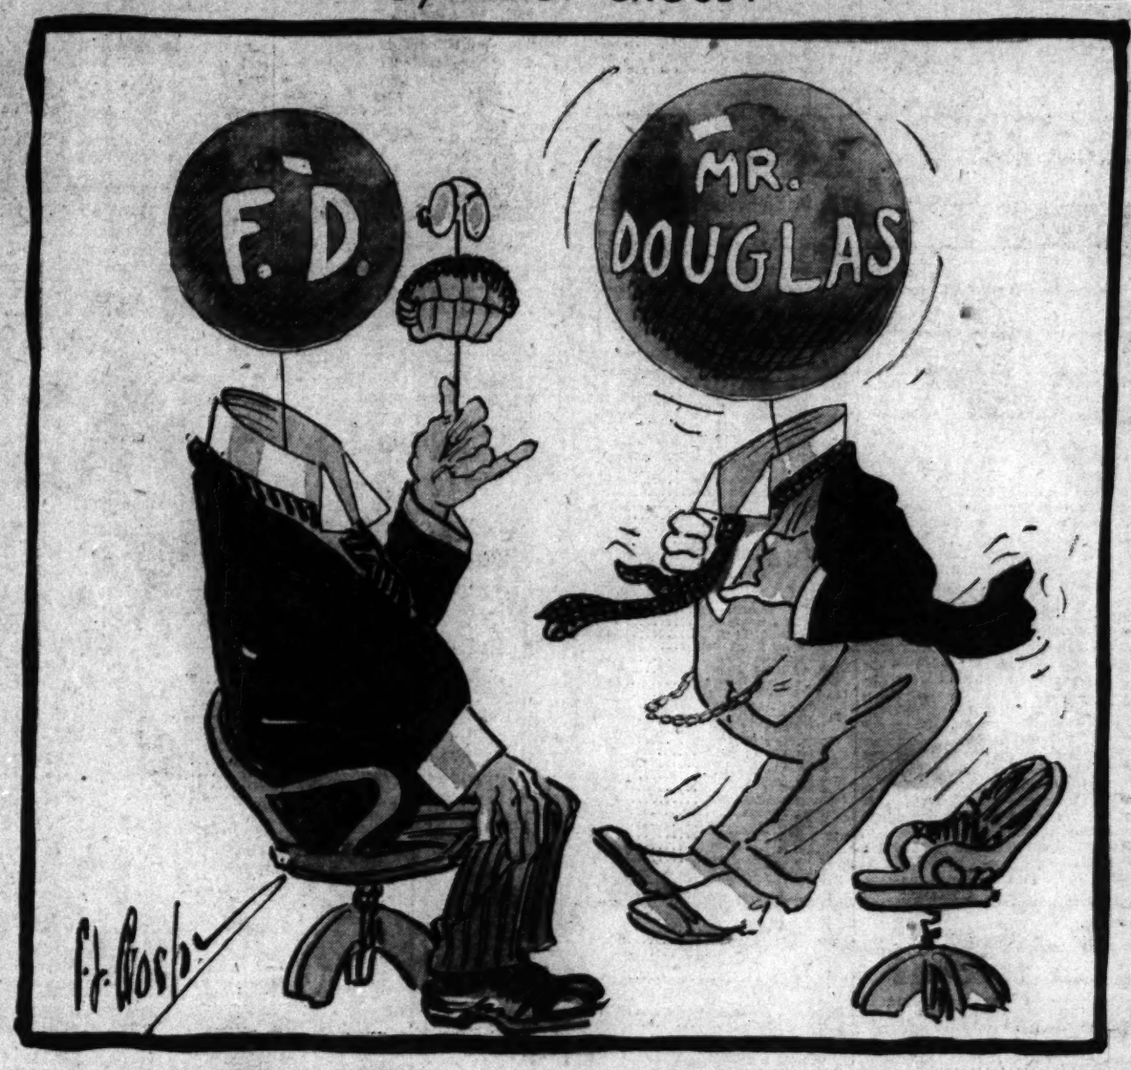
NATIONAL DEFENSE

AN IMAGINARY DIALOGUE

By PERCY CROSBY



Mr. Douglas: You sent for me, Mr. President?

F. D.: Don't be formal, call me Frankie.

Mr. Douglas: Yes, Mr. President.

F. D.: How is Congress?

Mr. Douglas: I just had them dusted off ready for shipping.

F. D.: A fine Congress!

Mr. Douglas: Yes, Mr. President. You sent for me, sir?

F. D.: Why, yes, I want to congratulate you on your great achievement. I see you cut down National Defense to a point where we have saved millions. Amazing! How are the trees growing?

Mr. Douglas: We expect a bumper crop of pussywillows come a year arbor day.

F. D.: That ought to give us fur coats for the army.

Mr. Douglas: That seems like a well-turned whimsy. Beware of the syndicates, Mr. President.

F. D.: Yes, Mr. Douglas, as I was saying, your Army and Navy cut is a landslide.

Mr. Douglas: Yes, nobody ever thought of it before.

F. D.: Where did you get the idea?

Mr. Douglas: Well, Mr. President, I feel that we are in a new era, and war is a thing of the past.

F. D.: Yes, war has been outlawed. There are no more wars any more. And yet, it grieves me to learn that the Chinese fail to grasp this truth. There seems to be unnecessary shooting going on in that quarter of the globe. Or is that just newspaper talk?

Mr. Douglas: Just newspaper talk, Mr. President. The Japanese were promenading through China as the guests of Manchuria. The Chinese have a habit of getting in the range of Japanese machine guns.

F. D.: You mean the Chinese are still aggressive despite the Geneva ruling?

Mr. Douglas: Very much so, Mr. President. They insist upon crowding the muzzles, whereas, in all truth, if they withdrew in a spirit of gracious dignity, the plans for world peace would be enhanced.

F. D.: You mean the way I have outlined the country's program?

Mr. Douglas: I beg pardon, Mr. President?

F. D.: I say, you mean the way that we have outlined the country's program?

Mr. Douglas: Precisely, Mr. President, precisely. It has met with nation-wide success, and without presumption, I feel that it behooves me to avail myself of this opportunity to inform you that my desk is heaped with telegrams of congratulations, especially from the Carnegie Peace Foundation.

F. D.: And the friends of the Army and Navy—have you heard from them?

Mr. Douglas: None that I can recall.

F. D.: But the best people of the land did not complain?

Mr. Douglas: No, the church people were all for doing away with the Marine Corps as well as the Army and Navy.

F. D.: Well, that looks promising. How did the officers and men in the service receive the news?

Mr. Douglas: They're getting used to my methods, and have accepted the inevitable.

F. D.: Then, if you have been deluged with telegrams from people in favor of harmonious international relations, while on the other hand there are no comments from people supposedly for the Army, Navy and Marines, it would seem that the great majority of people are in favor of cutting down national defense.

Mr. Douglas: Mr. President, the friends of national defense are strictly confined to the service. The telegrams on my desk prove that national defense belongs to an age which has gone.

F. D.: Why wasn't this done before?

Mr. Douglas: You didn't have me, Mr. President.

F. D.: Congress has made no comment?

Mr. Douglas: Not a voice was raised in opposition to the program. You have them in the palm of your hand, Mr. President.

F. D.: Oh, let us rather say that we have them in the palms of our hands.

Mr. Douglas: Thank you, Mr. President.

F. D.: Of course, Mr. Douglas, I do want to be sure—well, you can understand—that is to say, I do not want to offend anybody. I received an overwhelming majority last fall, and naturally I want to see if I can't beat that next election.

Mr. Douglas: Well, Mr. President—

F. D.: Call me Frankie.

Mr. Douglas: Yes, Mr. President, but you can't complain about the reforestation army. You know, a quarter of a million votes in the bag are not to be pooh-poohed at this time.

F. D.: Yes, I know, I know.

Mr. Douglas: And then again, Mr. President, I hope you are aware of the fact that the Army, Navy and Marines have no vote?

F. D.: To be sure—yes . . . to be sure!

Mr. Douglas: And there has been a great saving—a tremendous saving by dismissing enlisted men.

F. D.: Yes, there has been a saving, but sometimes I wonder whether the country saves enough to compensate for the loss. The reforestation army involves great expense, when each man receives $30 a month.

Mr. Douglas: But, Mr. President, a vast amount of the men cost the Government merely $12.50 a month.

F. D.: How do you figure that?

Mr. Douglas: Enlisted men receive $17.50 a month from the Government; well, by getting rid of the enlisted men, the United States saves that pay per man. And besides, we are not depriving the reforestation men of that $17.50. They get their full $30, and it costs the Government only$12.50.

F. D.: When one stops to think it out, there's a great deal to be said for the cleverness of your plan.

Mr. Douglas: Thank you, Mr. President. Two heads are better than one Congress. One is needed to think it out, and the other is needed to okay the plan.

F. D.: Yes, I'll have to admit it needs a brain to plan for the nation.

Mr. Douglas: Thank you, Mr. President.

F. D.: I'm afraid we had better go carefully in regard to making any further cuts from the service.

Mr. Douglas: On the contrary, Mr. President, the service is just the place for another cut, and if the occasion demands it, still a further cut.

F. D.: How do you arrive at such a speedy conclusion?

Mr. Douglas: Representatives from many peace organizations assure me that any drastic cuts made on the Army, Navy and Marines would not be offensive to the people. One prominent representative, laughingly put it: "The sky's the limit, Mr. Douglas."

F. D.: Still——?

Mr. Douglas: Oh, I can assure you, Mr. President, that many of our church people felt that the only sure way of balancing the budget was to scrap the entire fleet. I must admit, now that I have made such incredible strides, that such a move is most tempting—most tempting!

F. D.: Well, we'll see how the London Conference turns out before we entertain that thought.

Mr. Douglas: Judging from the opinions expressed by the various peace delegates they were unanimous on one point.

F. D.: What was that?

Mr. Douglas: They felt that the symbols of militarism in the Smithsonian Institute could be safely retained in order to appease those eccentrics who favor some remnant of national defense.

F. D.: Are some of these pacifist representatives among our most prominent citizens?

Mr. Douglas: I can name one who is one of the most prominent men in the nation.

F. D.: Who?

Mr. Douglas: Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, President of Columbia University. Incidentally, he was most warm in his praise of your work, Mr. President.

F. D.: Well, I'll have to admit that Dr. Butler is one of our outstanding citizens.

Mr. Douglas: Yes, Mr. President, we must admit that a man has great prominence when the Carnegie Peace Foundation pays him $25,000 a year and all his expenses for himself and his family to Europe and return.

F. D.: What does he do to earn such a sum?

Mr. Douglas: Well, that I do not know. Your advisors, the two Columbia professors, might be able to answer that far better than I can.

F. D.: Taking everything all in all, Mr. Douglas, I find that the people have been exceedingly joyous for all the great work that has been done since March 4th.

Mr. Douglas: Thank, you, Mr. President.

Stocks Continue Advances, Recovering Part of Losses

Gain of 1.3 Points Recorded as Sales Mount to 3,301,641 Sales.

New York, May 16 (A.P.).—Stocks recaptured part of their recently lost ground today in a fairly inclusive rally.

Financial circles manifested deep interest in President Roosevelt's armament message to the world, publication of which around noon found shares already on the upgrade. With foreign affairs sharply to the fore by virtue of recent developments, Wall street naturally hoped that the President's plea would smooth the way for success both at Geneva and at London, and the advance in prices which followed appearance of the document may well have reflected fresh optimism.

Considering the market by groups, prominence was accorded the textiles, sugars, metals, foods and alcohols. The general run of net gains was 1 to 4 points; some less active issues exceeded the upper level. American Telephone offered strong leadership, especially after one of the Bell System operating companies had declared a regular quarterly dividend, an incident which some traders doubtless felt might be a straw in the wind for tomorrow's meeting by the parent company board. The shares were up more than 3 points at one time, finishing 2⅝ higher.

Allied Chemical, Celanese, American Sugar, U. S. Smelting, United Fruit, Coca Cola, Crown Cork, National Distillers, Case, Santa Fe and Union Pacific closed 2 to around 4 points higher. U. S. Steel, American Can, American Tobacco "B," Westinghouse, Du Pont, Southern Pacific, National Steel, Consolidated Gas, Western Union and North American firmed a point or more. Sales aggregated 3,301,641 shares.

In foreign exchange dealings, the dollar was again favored, though its advance held within moderate limits, as has been the case for the past week, or since the pound had its temporary spurt above $4. Stabilization of currencies, one of the goals which Mr. Roosevelt hopes to see attained at its level in world markets, is probably open to discussion, but the narrowing of fluctuations is noticeable.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

(Associated Press.)

London—Owing to the belief that yesterday's setback was overdone and that the European outlook was not so unfavorable, coupled with a favorable forecast of President Roosevelt's statement today, caused a general upward trend in prices on the stock exchange which wiped out most of yesterday's losses. Gilt-edged securities advanced as much as 1½ points, while German bonds gained 2 to 4. Transatlantic issues also participated in the advance and the market closed steady.

Paris—Although trading was hesitant awaiting Chancellor Hitler's speech, prices on the bourse registered light gains stimulated by the improvement in foreign issues. The closing was firm.

Berlin—Quotations of the boerse improved and closed firm.

U. S. TREASURY RECEIPTS.

Treasury receipts for May 13 were $3,872,827.73; expenditures, $16,501,141.42; balance, $442,553,737.61. Customs duties for 13 days of May were $9,541,005.67.

BONDS STEADY AGAIN WITH SLIGHT UPTURN

New York, May 16 (A.P.).—The bond market steadied today with the aid of further good reports from business and industry and a more hopeful outlook for the admittedly serious foreign situation following President Roosevelt's disarmament plea.

The average for 60 domestic corporate loans edged up .2 of a point, to 72.6, another new high mark for the year. The trading volume was but a trifle larger than that of yesterday, however, sales totaling only $11,805,000, par value.

Despite moderate rallies in most groups, transactions generally were rather colorless. German government obligations displayed a better feeling toward the European situation by rallying a point or more.

Cotton Stabilization Board Sells Last of Holdings

New Orleans, May 16 (A.P.).—The Cotton Stabilization Corporation disposed of virtually the last of its cotton holdings here today when it placed 19,306 bales on the auction block for sale to the highest bidder.

E. F. Creekmore, president and general manager, said he had recommended to the Farm Board that high bids be accepted on all but 2,800 bales on which "unsatisfactory" bids were received.

The corporation indicated the total sale would amount to a little less than three-quarters of a million dollars. The cotton, all held in storage in foreign locations, was sold, it was stated, so as to terminate storage and carrying charges.

Mr. Creekmore said the successful bidders would be announced later.

The remaining 2,800 bales probably will be sold privately, Mr. Creekmore said, and this disposition will end the work of the Stabilization Corporation which was initiated in the spring of 1930 when it bought 1,300,000 bales in order to "cushion the decline" of the cotton market. Most of this holding was later turned over to the Red Cross.

Dried Fruits Steady.

New York, May 16 (A.P.).—Dried fruits steady, unchanged.

Steel Prices Unchanged.

New York, May 16 (A.P.).—Steel prices unchanged.

CURB RENEWS RISE ALONG WIDE FRONT

New York, May 16 (A.P.).—The curb market moved forward quietly on a fairly broad front today. Prices steadied after slight irregularity at the opening and the improvement gained momentum in the early afternoon. The close was but slightly under the best.

Utilities were generally strong, although a number of specialties recorded substantial gains. Advances of 1 to around 2 points were shown in such issues as Electric Bond & Share and Aluminum Co.

Oils were an exception to the general trend, turning somewhat heavy at the close.

The turnover approximated 415,000 shares against 363,000 on Monday.

Texas Panhandle Wheat Crop Destruction Heavy

Dallas, Tex., May 16 (A.P.).—Owen Sherrill, regional manager of the Government crop production loan office, estimated today that 90 per cent of the Texas Panhandle wheat crop had been destroyed.

He returned last night after attending meetings of field representatives in Amarillo and Albuquerque, N. Mex., where the crop situation was discussed. Arrangements were made for Government loans for fall planting. Mr. Sherrill said that elimination of the Texas Panhandle and New Mexico spring wheat crops from the market "undoubtedly would enhance the price level on this commodity." He reported similar conditions in Kansas. Weather conditions were said to be responsible for the losses.

WHEAT VALUES SINK ON POLITICAL FEARS

Buying Power Lacking in Late Rally; Corn and Oats Lose.

Chicago, May 16 (A.P.).—Disturbed by misgivings about political happenings in Europe and by uncertainties regarding administration of the Roosevelt farm relief inflation bill, grain markets worked downward today.

Clearing weather in the corn belt was an additional bearish factor. Curtainment of speculative demand, rather than urgency of selling, stood out as a characteristic of the day's operations.

Wheat closed unsettled, ¼ to ⅝ under yesterday's finish; corn, 1 to 1¾ down; oats, ½ to ¾ off, and provisions varying from 15 cents decline to a rise of 5 cents.

Although wheat had a moderate rally in the final hour, reflecting firmness of stocks, buying power lacked volume to force a complete recovery from declines. The majority of wheat traders showed a disposition to confine purchases to a minimum for the time being, and were buyers on price setbacks only. A general tendency was shown to await Government action under powers which the farm relief bill granted to bring about higher prices.

Indications were that the new domestic spring wheat crop had obtained an excellent start, although reports said the season was ten days later than usual. Weather conditions in the Canadian Northwest, too, were of a kind that favored auspicious rounding out of seeding. On the other hand, exporters appeared to be taking more interest in Canadian wheat, and overseas purchases today were estimated at 750,000 bushels, in addition to business yesterday totaling more than a million.

Corn fell about 1½ cents with some stop loss selling orders executed. Oats were dragged down chiefly by corn.

Provisions reflected the course of grains, despite higher quotations on hogs.

COTTON PRICES CUT ON SOUTHERN SALES

July Sells at 8.62 With General Market Down 4 to 5 Points.

New York, May 16 (A.P.).—Increased Southern hedge selling and continued liquidation checked mid-session rallies in cotton today in sympathy with strength of the stock market and prices turned reactionary in the late trading, carrying some of the later months down to new lows for the day.

July contracts rallied from 8.55 to 8.73, but then reacted to 8.62 and closed at that figure with the general market finishing barely steady at a net decline of 4 to 5 points.

The opening was 1 to 6 points lower despite relatively firm Liverpool cables. Early pressure seemed to come from Liverpool, continental and Japanese sources which some market observers believed reflected uncertainty over the European political situation.

However, the early declines met fairly active buying orders from the trade, Wall street and Western sources. Pressure also tapered off with the result that more active positions rallied about 7 to 16 points from initial levels and to net gains of 5 or 8 points. The advance carried October to 8.97 and December to 9.12, but increased liquidation and Southern selling caused the market to recede about 11 or 12 points from the best.

MONTGOMERY BEER QUIZ WILL CONTINUE

Trustees of County Schools Are Announced by Board for 3-Year Term.

Montgomery County Bureau of The Post, 8706 Georgia Ave., Silver Spring, Md. Telephone Shepherd 2363.

Marked by heated clashes between Mrs. Jesse W. Nicholson, president of the National Democratic Women's Law Enforcement League, and proponents of the licenses at issue, the Maryland beer board yesterday held its first Montgomery County hearing in the courthouse at Rockville. Members of the board are Frank P. Bratten, Baltimore, chairman; W. Clinton McSherry, Frederick, and L. Franklin Purnell, Ocean City.

The board heard arguments on issuance of licenses to the Congressional Country Club, the Columbia Country Club, the Rossdhu Castle Club and the stores of Leon Bondareff and Isidor Suser, both of Brookeville road, all of which had been objected to by a group of citizens headed by Mrs. Nicholson and residing in the Chevy Chase-Bethesda area.

The board members intimated that they would make known their decision tomorrow regarding the five hearings yesterday. They will hold further hearings tomorrow at the courthouse and probably Friday. There have been 25 protests against issuance of licenses in the county and the board hopes to complete its hearings this week if possible.

40 in Alexandria Picked for Forest

Forty Alexandrians, all single men between 18 and 25, representing the city's quota for the reforestation camp, were sent to Fort Humphreys yesterday for training. The men were selected by the Alexandria United Charities.

The Alexandrians were examined by the Army Medical Corps and received congratulations for their excellent showing.

Representatives of the United Charities went to the homes of each of the men and notified them of their selection, and when the roll was called there were no absentees. The medical examination was held in Washington, and before departing for Fort Humphreys the men were given a substantial luncheon by an Alexandria citizen.

OPTION ON RETIRING NOW IN OFFICE BILL

are hundreds who would willingly take this opportunity to leave the service on an annuity.

The change in the apportionment clause is believed to have removed much of the danger of sweeping dismissal of excess workers from the District and such overquota States as Maryland, Virginia, Vermont and Iowa.

It was said that only where an employe from an overquota State or the District had the same efficiency rating, or a lower one, than an employe from another State would he be the first to go.

The alteration lessens the likelihood of a conference deadlock with the House on the quota issue. Nevertheless, an effort is expected from the Senate floor to remove completely the apportionment language from the bill, in line with the Senate subcommittee's original recommendations.

Another amendment to the bill, directing the transfer of the Botanic Garden to the Agriculture Department, was offered from the floor yesterday by Senate Democratic Leader Robinson. A similar provision was in the original Budget Bureau recommendations, but was stricken in the House.

ABOUT THE SHOW SHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

THE third annual Music Week Festival, in which competition ended last Thursday night at Loew's Fox, reached its culmination last evening when the winners in the various groups of contestants were announced from the stage of the theater at 8:45 o'clock.

The participants in the contest were listed, and awards made, in six groups. The winners in each group were as follows:

Senior choral group—American University Men's Glee Club, Harlan Randall, director.

Senior instrumental group—Washington Gas Light Co. Band, Otto Siebeneichen, conductor.

Senior high school choral group—McKinley High School Boys Glee Club, Mrs. Bella Thompson, director.

Senior high school instrumental group—Washington Boys Independent Band, Clinton J. Brown, conductor.

Junior choral group—Elliott Junior High School Boys Glee Club, Miss Hannah Bonnell, director.

Junior instrumental group—Interjunior High School Orchestra, Franklin J. Jackson, conductor.

In addition to supplying a week of program novelties at practically every daily performance, the annual Music Week Festival at Loew's Fox is becoming increasingly important as a valuable incentive to the Capital's amateur musical organizations for conscientious hard work throughout the year. This is a healthful stimulus to Washington's growth as a worthy cultural center. Congratulations to all concerned.

It has been vacation, and not death, that has taken the holiday in the film colony these past few days.

The passing of Ernest Torrence, noted instrumentalist, singer, comedian and character actor, robbed the stage and screen of an artist of fine attainment and exceptional versatility. The almost simultaneous death of John G. Adolfi removed one of the cinema's most able directors from the scene of his greatest usefulness.

Both answered their last curtains as what were supposed to have been recuperative vacations were just getting under way—Mr. Torrence was en route to his home in Scotland when taken off the Empress of Britain to undergo an operation that proved fatal; Mr. Adolfi on a hunting trip in the Canadian wilds, remote from medical aid, when stricken suddenly with a cerebral hemorrhage that resulted in his death last Thursday.

My first recollection of Ernest Torrence falls a little this side of the days of his eminence as a concert pianist, when he was barytone comedian with the old Princess Theater Company in New York, reaching the Belasco Theater here from time to time in such of the Princess' hits as "Very Good, Eddie," and the like.

He was so facile and so effective a comedian that it came as an utter surprise to the entire world of the theater when he scored so decisively as the murderous mountaineer in the silent screen version of Joseph Hergesheimer's "Tol'able David," his first picture and Richard Barthelmess' first individual starring vehicle. From that day on his place in the cinema was assured as what the profession terms a "dirty dog heavy," although he was equally competent in straight and kindly character parts.

John G. Adolfi is probably best known as the director of George Arliss' most successful talking pictures—"Alexander Hamilton," "The Man Who Played God," "A Successful Calamity," "The Millionaire," "The King's Vacation," "The Working Man," current at the Metropolitan, incidentally, and "Voltaire," recently completed, but not yet released.

Adolfi represented the third generation of his family to be connected with the theater and had himself been both stage and screen actor, as well as director. The tragic circumstances of his death are rendered even more poignant by the fact that he and Mrs. Adolfi, who survives him, were already laying plans for the celebration of their silver wedding anniversary July 1.

The motion-picture industry well may mourn the loss of these two distinguished gentlemen.

Phil Lampkin, musical director at Loew's Fox, yesterday afternoon addressed an audience of approximately 500 students of the George Washington University, in Corcoran Hall, on the subject of "Music, Modern and Classical." Prof. Lampkin, during his lecture, endeavored to prove that there is no such thing as "jazz music."

Maybe not jazz MUSIC, professor, but certainly jazz noise—if you get what I mean!

Gene Dennis, the pulchritudinous psychic, who will appear at RKO-Keith's, come Friday, is baffling the National Press Club at luncheon today. By telling what's in the hash?

Katharine Cornell, who just now is acting "Alien Corn" in Boston, reads on the average two books every three days. Among the volumes she recently finished are "Marie Antoinette," by Stefan Zweig; "Night Flight," by Saint Exupery; "Charlotte Bronte," by E. F. Benson; "In the End Is My Beginning," by Maurice Barring; "Murder Must Advertise," by Dorothy Sayers; "Ann Vickers," by Sinclair Lewis; "High Winds in Jamaica," by Richard Hughes; "The Tudor Wench," by Ellsworth Thane, and "One More Spring," by Robert Nathan. Not that it matters.

In Boston she has taken a house for her two weeks' sojourn and in Philadelphia will occupy an apartment. Thus does she transport her home to the road with her and eliminate the discomforts of touring. Not that that matters, either.

Students of the Clifford Brooke Academy of Stage Training in the Dramatic Arts have taken part in all of the National Theater Players' bills to date. The second successful term of the academy, now in its sixth week, will end on June 10. Those with aspirations for a professional stage career will learn with interest and delight that Mr. Brooke has announced the opening of the third term of his academy for early in October.

Mrs. William C. Gwynn is entertaining at tea Thursday at 5 o'clock in honor of the National Theater Players, with whom her daughter, Miss Louise Harrison Gwynn, is making her professional debut in Noel Coward's "Hay Fever" this week.

And this evening at 6, Mr. Ted Church and the Columbia Broadcasting System—begging your pardon, Mr. Heinl—are serving and pouring in the presidential suite at the Willard to take care of the matter of "a few introductions" and one thing and another, "strictly of a Washington flavor."

I trust all this will not be too strong a temptation for the weather man to give another shower!

BRONX JURY INDICTS SIX IN GAS MURDER

Former Alderman Included in List; Capital Woman's Death Investigated.

New York, May 16 (A.P.).—A Bronx County jury today returned an indictment charging five men with murder in the first degree in connection with the death, by gas, of Michael Malloy, February 2 last.

The grand jury also indicted Dr. Frank A. Mansella, a former alderman, as an accessory after the fact and for allegedly giving false information in a death certificate.

Bronx County authorities charged that Malloy was killed for his insurance by placing a gas tube in his mouth while he was intoxicated, after attempts to kill him by giving him poison alcohol and running him down with an automobile had failed.

In their investigation of the case, Bronx authorities also concentrated on the death of Mabel Carlson, formerly of Washington, D. C., who died in March of last year in a Bronx apartment maintained by Anthony Marino, allegedly owner of a speakeasy, and one of those indicted.

After an autopsy her death was attributed to bronchial pneumonia, with chronic alcoholism as a contributing cause. During their investigation within the last few days, Bronx officials said that Miss Carlson, presumably while intoxicated, had been exposed to open windows and that cold water had been poured over her.

In addition to Marino and Dr. Manzella, those indicted today in connection with Malloy's death were Frank Pasqua, 24, an undertaker; Daniel Kreisberg, 29; Harry Green, 24, and Joseph Murphy, 28.

Collectors Named For Elkins Estate

Because of an impending contest over the estate of Mrs. Hallie Davis Elkins, Justice Jennings Bailey, in the District Supreme Court yesterday appointed George F. Snyder and Hugh H. Obear as collectors to conserve the estate until it is finally adjudicated.

At the same time, Justice Bailey appointed J. V. Morgan and Wilton J. Lambert as attorneys for the collectors.

Mrs. Elkins left an estate valued at more than $1,000,000 when she died March 1. A son, former United States Senator Davis Elkins, was named as the principal beneficiary, a $300,000 trust fund being established for his use. The attack on Mrs. Elkins' will was launched by a grandson, Stephen Elkins, who claimed that undue influence had been utilized.

'THE FOUR SEASONS' WINS WARM PRAISE

Washington Choral Society Gives Premiere of Opus by Johann Bach.

The Washington Choral Society scaled new heights last evening in presenting the American premiere of Johann Sebastian Bach's "The Four Seasons" as the major offering in their May festival concert, under the auspices of the Community Center Department at the Central High School.

Assisting the society were the Washington String Quartet and a chamber orchestra of eighteen pieces picked from the personnel of the National Symphony Orchestra. Instrumental and the choral work were under the leadership of Louis A. Potter, with Gertrude Nash at the piano and Walter Nash at the organ.

The Bach Cantata Opus, No. 206, was originally written as a commemorative, eulogizing in music the beauties and the grandeur of the German rivers, and titled "Schleicht, Spielende Wellen." For more general presentation J. Michael Diak wrote and arranged "The Four Seasons," to which he added as the finale a chorus from "Auf, Schmetternde Toene."

Even in the present English version, this cantata still retains much of the pastoral lines; but here, as in most choral work, it is the music that counts, and the Washington Choral Society is to be highly complimented not only for its excellent rendition of the Bach work (from which, however, the solos were omitted) but for its inaugural presentation.

"Psalm CL" of Cesar Franck, the other major offering, was, by a shade, the better sung of the heavier works.

Between these classical extremes, the society sandwiched in four charming madrigals—"The Silver Swan" (Gibbons), "The Nightingale" (Mendelssohn), "How Sweet the Moonlight Sleeps" (Paning), "Dusk of Night" (Arkangelsky).

The Washington String Quartet skillfully played the first movement of Debussy's "Quartette." "Prelude du Deluge" (Saint-Saens), "Pastorale" (Corelli), "Chanson Russe" (Moussorgsky) and "Procession of the Sardar" (Iwanow) composed the praiseworthy contributions of the chamber orchestra.

Invasion of China Believed Ending

Tientsin, China, May 16 (A.P.).—The arrival in north China of Gen. Hwang Fu, representative of the Nanking government who is reputed to be quite friendly toward Japan, has led to the belief that the Japanese invasion south of the Great Wall is nearly finished.

Gen. Hwang's coming has produced a distinct change in the political atmosphere in this area where it is believed that the new spokesman from Nanking may make an arrangement with the Japanese which will result in the halting of the army's westward drive.

This interpretation is connected with the statement issued by the Japanese military commander in Manchuria, Field Marshal Nobuy Oshi Muto, yesterday.

Lieut. Moffett Assigned To Naval Air Station

Lieut. George H. Moffett, U. S. N., son of the late chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics, Admiral William A. Moffett, who lost his life in the Akron disaster, has been assigned to duty at the Anacostia Naval Air Station, it was announced yesterday at the Navy Department. Lieut. Moffett is now attached to the U. S. S. Lexington.

the preliminary exchange of trade commissions. This latter mode of renewing formal relations between the two countries is not at all to the liking of the Soviet authorities, it has been frequently asserted. The Moscow government wants undiluted recognition or none at all.

This attitude, however, is not borne out by the opinions of several Americans who have been in Russia recently and who are content to look with an open mind on the subject of recognition. They believe that the Moscow authorities are so anxious to be once again restored to the same plane of international intercourse with the United States, that they are willing to go to almost any length to achieve it.

Interpretation of Borah.

Thus any attenuated form of recognition would in reality be eagerly seized by them as a triumphant proof of their viability to exhibit to the starving millions of Russian peasants.

Senator Borah, who is known as the most eloquent proponent of Soviet recognition in the Senate, was quick to interpret the message to President Kalenin as an earnest desire for recognition. The Democratic leader in the upper house, Senator Joseph T. Robinson, of Arkansas, declared that the President's statement appeared to him to have the effect of recognition. He said:

"Particularly in view of the implied acknowledgment of conversational relations, the President's appeal seems to have the same result."

Speaker Rainey said:

"The President's message to Russia is one of the most interesting things about it." The Speaker of the House has long been an advocate of Soviet recognition for trade purposes.

Secretary of State Hull declared yesterday that he was already fixed on his Russian policy, but declined to elaborate on it in advance of the President's conference yesterday afternoon.

Reaction Eagerly Awaited.

Senator Borah has often been the intermediary through whom messages were sent and received from the Soviet Government. He saw no point in speculating on what the President intended but derived great satisfaction from the fact that Russia's existence had finally been recognized.

The reaction of the Soviet authorities is being awaited with considerable interest by the authorities here. Another, and perhaps more significant fact, was disclosed yesterday in the inclusion of William Christian Bullitt, as one of the experts who will accompany Secretary Hull to the London Conference.

Mr. Bullitt has long been known as an apostle of Soviet recognition and his presence at the London Conference will afford him another opportunity of entering into relations with various Soviet spokesmen in attendance at the conference and perhaps arrange a meeting between them and the Secretary of State who will preside over the American delegation.

HONEST VALUES!

Honest values begin with selling products for exactly what they are. AMOCO-GAS, the original special motor fuel, sells at a premium. And is worth that premium in greater mileage--greater riding ease--and fewer repairs. ORANGE AMERICAN GAS--always sold for what it is--a regular gasoline--rates 12% better than U. S. Government specifications for motor gas. It is the finest gasoline selling at regular gas price.

NATS OUTSLUG INDIANS TO WIN IN 12 INNINGS, 11-10

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

MANAGER ROGER PECKINPAUGH of the Indians, who used to be an infielder himself, was not long in feeling out the prowess of Cecil Travis, the kid from Chattanooga, who was stationed at third base for the Nats yesterday.

Following the quaint old custom of the big leagues when a rookie third baseman is making his debut, Peckinpaugh ordered Dick Porter, the first Indian at the plate, to drop a bunt down Travis' way, just as an experiment, which could be repeated later if effective.

Porter bunted and Travis was on it like a cat. The rookie whammed it to first base two full steps ahead of the flying Porter, and survived his first test with flying colors. The speedy Earl Averill tried it a few innings later and Travis threw him out just like that. There was no more bunting toward third for the rest of the game.

Travis Exhibits Punch.

When Bluege or Boken is ready to return to the line-up, Travis will still be retained for pinch-hitting duties. The five hits that the rookie made against the Cleveland pitching yesterday was in substantiation of his record in the Southern League, where he was batting a healthy .452 before last week when he dropped a hundred points after being spiked on his throwing hand.

Travis' first hit was made with the assistance of Pitcher Belve Bean, who covered first base via the great circle and arrived too late for Morgan's toss, but there was no taint with his other four hits later in the afternoon, all hard smashes with the exception of one looper, and the consensus is that he'll do.

Travis' presence definitely relegates Handy Man Dave Harris from third base to outfield and pinch-hitting duties. With Dave playing third, Heinie Manush complained that he couldn't see the plate from left field, and, anyway, Dave has an outfielder's throwing arm.

Umpire Roy Van Grafian showed remarkable patience in the tenth inning before he thumbed Bill Cissell out of the ball game after a called third strike. Cissell yapped for several minutes at the plate, continued his squawking from the bench and when he went to the dressing room he was still telling Van Grafian what Van Grafian could do.

Joe Cronin will be center field shy if Fred Schulte doesn't keep out of his way. Following his one-fall victory over Cronin at St. Louis last week, Schulte rushed in from center yesterday in the eighth, knocked Cronin down, stepped on him and then caught Cissell's high bat-handle hit.

England's Tennis Stars Sweep Finland Set

London, May 16 (A.P.).—England made a clean sweep of her Davis Cup tennis series with Finland as Fred Perry and H. W. (Bunny) Austin won the final two singles matches today.

Perry outclassed A. Grahan, 6—1, 6—2, 6—4, while Austin disposed of G. Grotenfelt easily, 6—0, 6—1, 6—4. The Britons previously had won the opening two singles matches Saturday and the doubles yesterday.

Trio, With 77, Tie in Local Golf Play

Galvin, Slattery, of G. U., Nolan Lead at Chevy Chase.

Soggy Course Slows Play; Rest of Field Tees Off Today.

By DAVE HERMAN.

TWO Georgetown University golfers, Joe Galvin and John Slattery, both natives of Boston, and M. Parker Nolan, veteran campaigner from Indian Spring, tied yesterday for first place with scores of 77, in the 18-hole qualifying round of the annual Chevy Chase invitation tournament, with the remaining half of the field due to compete for medal honors this morning.

Galvin turned in a 38-39; Slattery a 40-37, and Nolan came through with 38-39. Slattery, among the last to come home late in the evening over the soggy layout, was offered an opportunity to clinch undisputed possession of first place, but 3-putted the eighteenth green for a 5.

Two From Georgetown Tie for Fourth.

Georgetown University was very much in the spotlight as the entire team that recently acquitted itself with honor in the recent intercollegiate championships vied for honors. Joe Lynch, medalist in the Army and Navy invitation last season, tied for fourth place with 78, with another teammate, Walter Tynan, and W. D. Fondren, of Auguste, Ga., medalist in the Manor invitation championship.

Next in line came Craig McKee, Indian Spring star and member of George Washington University's team, who posted a 79. McKee blew up on the first nine, taking a 41, and had to rally coming home.

Jack McCarron, of Congressional, remained in the first division with his 41—39—80, in a tie with John Jankowski, Catholic University golf captain, and Page Hufty, of Chevy Chase. B. Warren Corkran, Baltimore Country Club veteran, shot an 81, as did R. McPartlin, of Georgetown.

Rain in Morning Slows Play.

A number of the participants played during a driving rain in the morning, and play was slowed considerably.

Travis' Headlong Slide Into Plate in Vain in Tenth

Louis Johnden, Post Staff Photographer.

The run that would have won the ball game yesterday failed to score in the tenth inning when Burnett's throw home caught Travis at the plate as he tried to gallop home from second on Rice's hit that the Cleveland second baseman knocked down back on the grass. Spencer put the ball on Travis three feet in front of the plate.

Dougan Wins From Burl, Substitute

Schwartz, Hurt, Fails to Fight; Manley Stops Bowen.

LEROY DOUGAN, more ferocious than ever, was awarded a unanimous decision over Eddie Burl, Jacksonville, Fla., bantamweight, in a bruising eight-round bout last night at Portner's Arena.

Burl, like most of the other pugilists who like to see fights when they are not fighting, crashed the gate. A few minutes later he accepted an eleventh-hour invitation to box in place of Benny Schwartz, of Baltimore.

Schwartz came to the reformed brewery sporting a bandage over his right eye. He produced a statement from a Baltimore physician which indicated that he had suffered an eye injury. The accident, he said, occurred during a workout Monday.

A minute before Burl and Dougan went into action little Bennah stepped into the ring. Toastmaster Jimmy Lake spilled the sad news.

Boys Put Up Fast Battle.

Burl and Dougan went at it. They slugged toe-to-toe for eight rounds. So swift was the milling that neither had an opportunity to take a deep breath while the battle was going on. The cat-eyed Floridian (he admitted before the fight that he had imbibed about eleven bottles of beer) found a different Dougan than the one who met him several months ago. Burl won the last fight in a walk.

Last night he had to summon to his aid all his cunning and courage. Dougan streaked out fast, showed ability to block well, and won the first round. Dougan took a shellacking in the second, but came back to take the third. The Arkansan's attack gained more momentum in the fourth when he popped Burl with everything but the waterbucket. It was his best round. Dougan's left worked beautifully. Burl started a comeback in the fifth, which he won. In the sixth Burl punished Dougan's body unmercifully. Dougan's infighting gave him the seventh, but Burl finished strong, chasing Dougan around the ropes with a rapid-fire attack. The officials figured the belated rally was not enough to give him the verdict, so they balloted in favor of the Arkansas bulldog.

Burl Does Good Job.

The decision, however, was very close, and, considering the circumstances, Burl really did a good job.

As predicted, Roy Manley made quick work of Ray Bowen in their scheduled eight-round semiwindup. Manley sifted through Bowen's defense, shot one of his tantalizing lefts to the District boy's jaw, and Bowen found himself on Forty-second street. Bowen, apparently starched, tried to arise at the count of seven, actually got up at ten—but it was too late.

Harry Kersey, of Jacksonville, Fla., won by a technical knockout over Bob Lowry, of Washington. Lowry suffered deep gashes on each side of his eye, and never answered the bell for the sixth.

In the opener, Ken Overlin, Norfolk middleweight, gave another sterling exhibit in punching Walter Kirkwood into defeat in their six-round opener. Overlin, a tower of strength, substituted for Sammy Britt.

Browns Nose Out Red Sox in 11th, 3-2

Boston, May 16 (A.P.).—Mervin Shea, Boston Red Sox catcher recently traded to St. Louis, today started the Browns' eleventh-inning rally that defeated his former teammates by a 3-to-2 margin.

Shea opened the second extra frame with a single to left, gained second on Jim Levey's sacrifice and scored on Carl Reynolds' single to left.

The Browns made their winning tally off Bob Kline, who relieved Lloyd Brown, former St. Louis southpaw, when the Browns tied the score at 2-all in the eighth. With the bases filled, Brown forced over the tying run by passing Bruce Campbell.

Bride of Al Thomas Dislikes Ball Games

Alexandria, Va., May 16 (U.P.).—The bride of Al Thomas, pitcher of the Washington Club, announced after their marriage here today that she loves him in spite of his baseball playing.

"I don't like baseball," said Mrs. Thomas, the former Alice Fleming, of Chicago. "I never have liked baseball and I never will. I've never seen my husband pitch and I don't intend to do so."

She said she grew to love him despite the way he spent all his summer afternoons.

Moe Berg and Bill McAfee, of the Nats, witnessed the nuptials this morning.

Giants Beat Cubs, 4-1; Hubbell Stars

Chicago, May 16 (A.P.).—Carl Hubbell, southpaw pitching ace of the Giants, turned in his fifth victory of the season today as New York opened an invasion of the West with a 4-to-1 triumph over the Chicago Cubs.

Hubbell yielded eight hits, two more than his mates were able to muster off a trio of Cub pitchers, but he was invincible with men on the bases. In addition he walked only one while the Giants drew six passes from Pat Malone, who started the game, and his two successors, Bud Tinning and Guy Bush.

Three of the passes, issued in succession by Malone in the first inning, followed two scratch singles and forced two runs across the plate. The two tallies sent Malone to the showers and gave the New York southpaw a working margin, which he never relinquished.

Tinning and Bush allowed the Giants only four singles in the remaining eight and two-thirds innings, but in the fifth and ninth innings, the Giants' lead-off man walked and then scored.

The Cubs' run, which prevented Hubbell from winning his fourth shut-out of the season, was the fault of the pitcher himself. After Jurges opened the seventh inning with a single, Hubbell threw Taylor's grounder wild in trying for a force play at second. Two infield outs pushed Jurges across the plate.

Wes Ferrell Faces Nats Today

Cronin, Mound Staff Shot, to Ask for Volunteer.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

'TIS said that an Irishman usually answers one question by asking another and Joe Cronin, Nat manager, who is as Irish as Paddy's well-known pig, ran true to form after yesterday's game when asked whom he would use on the hill against the Cleveland Indians in today's game.

"Who would you use, considering what my staff has been up against the last few days?" he asked, and he then intimated that he probably would have to ask for a volunteer. This means that even the Nat skipper will not know the answer until around game-time this afternoon.

Whoever asks for the job and gets it likely will have plenty of troubles, for Wesley Ferrell is due to do the slabbing for the Indians and he always can be counted upon to give opposing hitters plenty of trouble. And, to make the outlook even blacker for the Nats, Manager Roger Peckinpaugh is planning to start Orel Hildebrand against the Capital Cityans tomorrow. All Hildebrand has done to date is to turn in five victories in a row, three of them shut-outs.

Ossie Bluege's injured knee must have improved in leaps and bounds as the Nats' regular third sacker sat on the bench and saw Rookie Cecil Travis field flashily and crack out five hits in seven trips to the tee. The fact is that Ossie could have played yesterday if absolutely necessary, but a day or two additional rest is needed. Of course, if Travis continues showing anywhere near the form he did yesterday, Bluege can take as long a rest as he desires. But that is a little too much to ask of Travis or any one else.

Bluege is a great player and plenty will be heard of him before the season ends.

Both teams had handicapped second basemen working yesterday. Myer was still slightly shakey from his beaning in Detroit at the start of the Nats' recent road trip, while Bill Cissell, of the Tribe, had his right wrist in splints, not to mention the fact that he hardly has recovered from a charley horse attack. He argued too loudly over a called strike in the tenth and was banished.

Harley Boss, former Nat first sacker's assignment as a Cleveland regular, failed to take. While he can field rings around Ed Morgan, he has not shown half the offensive power of the veteran—and the hit's the thing in baseball as it is played these days.

11 Pitchers in Game; Nats' 7-1 Early Lead Erased.

By SHIRLEY L. POVICH
(Sports Editor of The Post).

THE slug-nutty Nats and the Cleveland Indians led eleven pitchers to the slaughter yesterday, and the last available Washington hurler was warming up in the bull pen when Joe Kuhel mercifully ended the massacre by driving the Nats' twenty-seventh base hit of the afternoon through the legs of Mel Harder in the twelfth inning. It was that kind of a ball game. Washington won it by the double-jointed score of 11 to 10, and dragged Cleveland down into a second-place tie, a half game behind the idle Yankees.

Base hits were a dime a dozen, and Kuhel's winning blow was his fifth of the game, following among others a triple in the second inning and a home run that he lifted over the right field wall in the fifth, to share the batting honors with the rookie Cecil Travis, and Luke Sewell, who learned about Cleveland pitching in the ten years he spent behind the plate for the Indians.

Indians Overcome Nats' 7 to 1 Lead.

The Nats were ambushed halfway through the game after they had amassed a 7-to-1 lead for Walter Stewart. The Indians started nudging the ball into the outfield against Stewart in the fifth, routed him out of the box in the sixth, continued their assault on Bob Burke in the seventh, and put three runs over against Monte Weaver in the eighth to take a 10-to-8 lead that they couldn't hold.

But the Indians curled up against the relief pitching of Bill McAfee and General Al Crowder, the fifth and sixth of the Nats' hurlers to be called into service. McAfee held them hitless during the ninth and tenth and Crowder gave them the same dose in the eleventh and twelfth, when the Nats finally went out and won the ball game.

Although the Indians subsided completely after the eighth, every extra inning contained a Washington threat, but it was not until the twelfth that matters were brought to a head.

Myer's Single Starts Rally In Twelfth.

Cecil Travis, the Chattanooga recruit, who filled Ossie Bluege's shoes at third base in a manner that threatens to give Bluege a prolonged rest, failed to get on base in the twelfth for the first time during the ball game, but Buddy Myer rapped a single to center, and Luke Sewell came through with his fifth hit of the ball game to put Myer on third.

The three hours and 24 minutes of play had sent the game far into the dusk and with the umpires ready to call it a tie at the end of the twelfth if there was no score, Bluege was sent in to pinch-hit for Crowder, whose yeoman services were no longer needed on the mound. Harder walked him to fill the bases, and along came Kuhel.

Harder dropped by instinct at the crack of Kuhel's bat against his first pitch, but too late to trap the ball

For the Record Book

Yesterday's hectic game in which 34 players, including 11 pitchers, were used by the Nationals and Indians combined, set one new American League record, tied a major league one, and closely approached two other marks.

The use of 11 pitchers in one game was a new high in the junior circuit, surpassing marks of 10 held jointly by the Browns-Indians in 1924 and the Red Sox-Tigers in 1927, while it equaled the National League mark. Washington called on six hurlers, within two of the top figures set back in 1913 by the Nats in a game against the Red Sox.

Three American League games have seen 34 players used. The record is 36.

LADINO DEFEATS STAR PLATERS IN MUD AT PIMLICO

Parr's Racer Winner in Feature

Bally Bay Defeated by Length; Latter's Saddle Slips.

By WALTER HAIGHT
(Post Staff Correspondent).

PIMLICO RACE TRACK, May 16.—Trainer Elmer Trueman, of Washington, who dominated the turf show at Havre de Grace, saddled his first winner of the local meeting here today and accounted for the purse in the Salisbury, which served feature purposes on a program contested over a muddy course which was at most times enveloped in a thick fog.

Trueman's winner was the mud-running Ladino, with little H. Cruz, wearing the chain-gang colors of Ral Parr, in the saddle.

The race, over a mile and 70 yards, drew a half dozen 3 and 4 year olds and was a two-horse race from start to finish. Ladino scored a lucky decision. It was Bally Bay that the Parr representative beat by a length margin, but Bally Bay did not have a fair crack at the finish. His saddle slipped at the sixteenth pole when the struggle was all even, and Dabson had to occupy his time from that point in trying to stay in the saddle.

Bally Bay had led from the start, being followed by Ladino and Foxiana. Ladino closed the favorite and paid $5.60.

The Parr horse was claimed out of the race by O. Blank.

12,000 Watch Program.

Despite the threatening weather one of the largest early week crowds was on hand, numbering in the neighborhood of 12,000.

Standout proved as much in the opening race, when under the handling of Johnny Gilbert, the Catalan colt, led always his field to slop pass the judges' stand some six lengths ahead of Electric Gaff, which was another four lengths in front of Fluffy Lee. Standout's mudding ability was no secret and the win pay-off provided a profit of only 90 cents on the dollar. Lone Hand, which drew a lot of play, was carefully ridden by Johnny Bejshak, but was never a factor.

Sonny Workman and the C. V. Whitney's Piety proved the winning combination in the second race, a 4-furlong sprint for two-year-olds. Piety showed a keen liking for the course and cut the rail all the way to slide home ahead of Marge and Impromptu. It was the second straight favorite success.

Lester W. Scores Over Jumps.

Lester W., with H. Murdock escorting him over the jumps, turned in a surprise victory in the Sacandaga Steeplechase which was run in a fog. Capstone, the well-played representative of Mrs. John Hay Whitney, was second, with Sid, the favorite, third. Lester W. was in front before a jump was reached and stayed there. The field was in sight of the crowd only when it passed the stands and there were wild rumors that this horse had fallen and that horse had toppled but the only mishap was when Zermatt refused to take one of the jumps.

Gilbert rode his second winner of the day on If Ida, which has shown her stuff on a muddy track before. Today she had a margin of a length over the favored Lodorous in a 4½-furlong test for juveniles. Third money went to Horatio Hugh. Gilbert had his mount fast away and was never headed. If Ida paid $13.

Bright Bird Leads From Start.

Bright Bird cakewalked all the way in the sixth to take a purse. Fallon steered him home a length in front of Storm, with Busted third.

The seventh race went to Mexico, which came out of the fog to win by a length and a half over a fast-closing Prometheus. Hacky H was third.

Squeeze Play romped in ahead of his field in the final. Brown Sinner and Strongheart were second and third.

PIETY entered contention swiftly, secured racing room on the inside of MARGE when approaching the home stretch, moved into command when ready and was steadied to the finish. Two-dollar mutuels paid—LESTER W., $23.80, $9.40, $5.80; CAPSTONE, $7.80, $5.00; SID, $4.60.

LESTER W., taken under restraint at the second fence, took command at his leisure at the next jump and raced in front thereafter. He had speed in reserve at the finish. CAPSTONE was racing handily at the eighth fence in front of Ruby, but was unable to get to the winner. SID was always in command of the others. A heavy fog enveloped the course and the colors could only be seen at the eighth and last two jumps and finish.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—IF IDA, $13.80, $4.20, $2.80; LODORUS, $2.80, $2.40; HORATIO HUGH, $4.80.

IF IDA, beginning rapidly and showing good ability in the footing, assumed a brief early lead under stout pressure, resisted strong contention from LODORUS, and was under severe urging at the end. LODORUS, punished freely for the entire trip, raced on the inside of the winner and fought it out gamely. HORATIO HUGH came through on the inside during the stretch run and outfinished DUROA. Latter, well placed, lost ground entering the home stretch and tired.

LADINO, handling his weight well and at home in the going, was raced close to BALLY BAY, responded readily to take command when reaching the final furlong pole, and then was kept under stout pressure. BALLY BAY, raised in front and having a lot of ground, weakened steadily in the last furlong. FOXIANA raced well placed, but could not threaten the first two at any stage. Two-dollar mutuels paid—BRIGHT BIRD, $6.40, 2.60, $2.40; STORM, $2.40, $2.20; BUSTED, $3.80.

BRIGHT BIRD, going in his best form and outrunning his field to the first turn, was rated in front, swung wide at the stretch turn, carrying STORM with him, and then held on stoutly. STORM, kept on the outside while close to the leaders, made a four-cornered effort in the final drive, but was forced out all during the stretch run. BUSTED was unable to reach the leaders and outfinished the tiring BUBOLA. Latter forced a steady early pace, but weakened when put to a drive. The others could not enter into a forward position.

MEXICO came through on the inside of BENISH WAY when straightened into the home stretch, was placed to punishment and was hard ridden to stall off PROMETHEUS. Latter came wide into the home stretch, but finished full of run. HACKY H. held on well during the stretch. BRAVE AND BOLD was tiring at the end. RUTH TIDINGS lost ground in the final stages. SQUEEZE PLAY sprinted into a commanding lead, was permitted to race stoutly and although punished nearing the end held BROWN SINNER safe. Latter, in closest pursuit throughout, swerved to the inside during the stretch run and could not make up any ground. STRONGHEART saved a lot of ground going to the first turn, but could not better his position when called on. PRIMLIN was outrun.

AT THE POST

with Bill Bennings

DEAR AL: PIMLICO RACE TRACK, MAY 16.

Jockey Dye, ruled off the turf for life for pulling Semester at Sportsman's Park yesterday, is a brother of Johnny Gilbert . . . Head Play left this track with the Preakness to his credit . . . but he's still on the schooling list . . . along with Benish Way, Gay Party . . . there's 32 in all . . . three winners for the boy yesterday . . . I mean Mrs. Bennings' beautiful son . . . and he might have cashed another win bet but for Bally Bay's saddle slipping . . . a fact that was overlooked by the chartmakers . . . but worth remembering . . . getaway day.

BILL.

FIRST RACE—CANTERWOOD will be favored by the track and may draw Gilbert as the rider. Looks like the best of this poor lot. MAJOR GENERAL gets in a field that may favor him. Is the one to beat. FAIR BILL to take care of the others.

SECOND RACE—INSPECTION met with interference the last time and clear sailing tomorrow may mean this purse. IN CLOVER is dangerous. Has worked well and has had one conditioner. PEEDEEQUE, a winner here, closes fast and has a chance.

THIRD RACE—CAWVOGE has been nursed along carefully and I expect to see a different race in this field. MUSKOGEE is coming along and appears second best. CURTAIN CALL may surprise with a good showing.

FOURTH RACE—SUE JONES ran a corking race the last time and must improve to beat MACK SENNETT. However, I'm told that she has worked in fine style since that race. Giving her a chance. EXCEED is a possible 50-1 shot, but might be played across the board profitably.

FIFTH RACE—GOOD ADVICE appears to be the safest wager in this field. Raced in the Derby and turned in a brilliant effort here last Saturday. SNOBFUL will like the going. DON PEDRO may wake up.

SIXTH RACE—JIMMY D. was whispered around the last time and raced a creditable race. Has BURNSIDE to tick here and that may be arranged. ROD RACK has races that would move him up.

SEVENTH RACE—GAY PARTY comes off the sprints and will like this route. MING SUN is the one the top fellow must handle. SQUEEZE PLAY for the show.

EIGHTH RACE—DUNFERN has been saved for this test. Get down three ways. ANNEMESSIC and WARD in CHANCERY for the rest.

Swivel Races At Bowie Meeting

Star Filly Training; Track Plans Daily Double Bets.

Special to The Washington Post.

BOWIE, Md., May 16.—The Kentucky Derby and Preakness are now a matter of history, and still the racing world doesn't know the rightful holder of the year's 3-year-old championship. However, that question will be decided during the spring meeting which opens Thursday.

Race Secretary Joseph McLennan has attracted such good 3-year-olds as Adolphe Pons' Swivel, Audley Farm's Trace Call, G. A. Griffith's Sarada, J. E. Hughes' Silent Shot, Glen Riddle Farm's War Glory and War Stripes, William Zeigler, jr.'s Keep Out and P. A. Markey's Swinhaven, all thoroughbreds that were seriously considered for both the Derby and Preakness until they fell afoul of the coughing epidemic and other ills that depleted the 3-year-old ranks early this spring.

Close students of racing are of the opinion that Swivel would have won the Derby hands down had she not been on the ailing list. Sarada was considered a good thing for the Preakness until taken sick. Therefore one will have to wait until the 3-year-olds match strides here before giving any colt, gelding or filly the year's crown.

If the Maryland Racing Commission permits it, the host organization will install the "daily double" system of wagering, which is so popular throughout America and Canada.

BUCKY HARRIS SAYS YANKS ARE SLIPPING

Tight Hurling Of 1932 Is Lacking

Tiger Pilot Says Ruth Is Slowing Up, But Still Chief Threat.

Sees No Club as a Set-Up This Season; Tigers in Slump.

By ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor).

NEW YORK, May 16.—Leading the invasion of Western clubs into the Bronx, the Detroit Tigers were prevented by cold, rainy weather today from further testing the rapidly developing theory that the New York Yankees are no longer the invincible outfit they appeared at the outset of the 1933 baseball campaign.

"They are still the club to beat," said Bucky Harris, popular young pilot of the Tigers, "but Ruth and Gehrig did not knock down any fences on their first swing through the West and the Yanks, as a whole, do not seem to be clicking the way they did a year ago.

Babe Ruth Slow But Dangerous.

"Ruth has slowed down a great deal, but he is still the most dangerous man on the club at bat—more so than Gehrig, who may begin to feel the strain of his long playing streak. You know there's a limit to durability, even in a man of his powers. The absence of Johnny Allen's pitching also has been a handicap to Joe McCarthy's club, but I will be surprised if the Yankees get quite as good as hurling as they did all last season.

"I'm not picking my club or any other to beat the Yankees, of course, but the way things have started, it figures to be a much closer race all the way. Cleveland and Chicago, with Al Simmons looking just as good as ever, both are plenty tough. Washington is a factor, although its pitching has not been up to expectations. The Athletics look good despite the absence of men like Earnshaw and McNair. You will have to keep an eye on the Boston Red Sox from now on.

"As for the Tigers, we're seventh in hitting and eighth in fielding, which just about explains why we haven't started off so well. If we can snap out of that we should get back into the first division. Our pitching has been good, but so has everybody else's.

"One of our toughest breaks is the loss of young Lyn Rowe's pitching services for perhaps a month, due to a sore arm. He shut out the White Sox in his first start, but pulled something in his pitching arm the next time out, bearing down too hard, and then, boy-like, tried to cover it up. He pitched in two more games before I found out his real condition and put him under the doctor's care.

"But he will be a winner when he gets back. He's a great kid."

Suggests Police Power For Umpires.

Having thus sized up the pennant outlook, Harris suggested the American League might well adopt definite rules and give umpires police power to enforce nonfraternizing among rival ball players, in keeping with the policy of more aggressiveness this year.

"It is a good idea to develop the keenest kind of rivalry on the field," said Harris. "If necessary, an umpire could be assigned an hour before every game, with instructions to see the players did not mingle."

There seemed no alarm meanwhile in the Yankee offices over the club's failure to set a fast early pace, but the off-day was marked by a prolonged conference of the board of strategy, consisting of Manager McCarthy and Edward G. Barrow, business generalisimo of the world champions.

NATS DEFEAT TRIBE, 11-10, IN 12 FRAMES which skidded through his legs out into center field to end the game.

Travis had a hand in bringing the Nats up from the ruck in the eighth and ninth when the Indians held their 11-10 lead. Cissel fumbled his grounder and Myer sent him to second with a single. Sewell scored him with his fourth hit.

Still trailing by one run, the top of the Nats' batting order, which with the exception of Kuhel, had been useless all afternoon, swung into action in the ninth and with one out tied the score on singles by Manush and Goslin and Cronin's long fly into right that Dick Porter picked off the fence to save the ball game from ending in a Washington victory in regulation time.

Thirty-four players found their way into the ball game, 18 Nats and 16 Indians. Belve Bean yielded the Nats their early lead and he was followed by Connally, Craghead, Brown and Harder. All of 'em shared in the Nats' 27 base hits.

Bill Cissell, who returned to the Indians' line-up Sunday after an injury had kept him idle since the start of the season, was banished in the eleventh inning for disputing three called strikes that Umpire Van Grafian saw fit to call. Cissell ranted volubly for five minutes, but Van Grafian had the last word.

Mt. St. Mary Here for 2 Contests

Invaders Play G. U. Today and G. W. Nine Tonight.

FRESH from their victory over Bucknell, the hardy sons of Mount St. Mary's College invade Washington today for two games. In the afternoon, the Mounts tangle with Georgetown at the Hilltop and tonight they play George Washington at Griffith Stadium.

Three local boys, Jake Farrell and the Lynch brothers, Joe and Tom, all of whom gained recognition for their athletic ability while at Gonzaga High School, are with the visitors. Joe plays shortstop, Tom, center field and Jake, third base.

The remainder of the team is Stuka, first base; Chanowski, second base; Norris, left field; McCormick, Catcher, and Corbett, right field. Sullivan, Erwin and O'Rourke are the outstanding moundsmen in the order named, and will hurl today's games.

Although soundly thrashed in its last four games the Hoyas envision a victory today. In the first tilt between the two, Mount St. Mary's came through with a four-run rally in the ninth inning to take the decision.

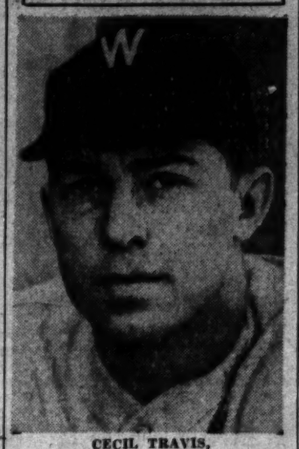
George Washington will present an entirely new line-up tonight, due to the illness of Johnny Fenlon. George Irving has been shifted to first, Otts Zahn going to short stop. Albert will be at third, Burgess in right, Trilling in center, and Madden in left, will patrol the outfield.

Cal Griffith, ordinarily a catcher, will be on the throwing end tonight. Young Griffith pitched a no-hit, no-run game early in the season in the G. W. Intramural League, and is not exactly a novice at the position.

Don Bomba, who has been playing right field, will be behind the bat.

Preceding the game and starting promptly at 7 o'clock the preliminary heats of the first annual District Playground relay championships will be held. Over 500 boys are entered. The winners tonight, and there will be 160 of them, will receive sweatshirts and be eligible to compete in the Friday night finals.

Sock-Cess



CECIL TRAVIS,
The third base rookie from Chattanooga who celebrated his debut with the Nats yesterday with five hits and a flawless fielding game.

FERRELL WILL HURL FOR INDIANS TODAY

Roy Spencer, traded to the Indians for Luke Sewell, was given a hand as he came to bat in the second. He showed his appreciation by singling to center on Stewart's first offering. It also might be mentioned that Sewell singled his first time up, too.

Pitcher Ed Linke, of the Nats, a victim of circumstances when it was necessary to recall Cecil Travis because of injuries with the player limit reached, left yesterday afternoon to join the Chattanooga Lookouts. "But I'll be back," he assured his mates—and he probably will be back.

Knowing Travis was playing his first major league game and probably was a little awed, Dick Porter, Cleveland lead-off man, bunted down third base way in the first and Travis threw him out easily, handling himself like a veteran. In the fifth, Averill tried to catch the rookie asleep and he was thrown out on a fine one-hand stop and rifle peg. Coming to bat in the second, the rookie topped a single down first base way and later scored the Nats' first run of the game.

When Cronin singled in the fourth yesterday, he broke his fast on hits which had extended through 13 times at bat. The Nat skipper had made his last previous bingle in St. Louis last Thursday.

Cronin, charged with an error on an easy grounder in the third, made the best play of the game in Round 7. He hustled over behind Travis to rob Morgan with a back-hand stop and really brilliant peg. Then he messed up another easy chance on the very next play.

Heinie Manush had so much trouble hitting safely yesterday that Ed Morgan decided to give him one in the seventh. He failed to cover first on Heinie's bat-handle bounder to Cissell. With normal fielding, this would have been the third out. The Nats did not take the gift seriously, though, although Goslin followed with a walk which packed the aisles.

A FAMILIAR figure about Greenville until his death, David Waldie had the distinction of wearing a 370-year-old street outfit. His overcoat was the latest 1897 style coat. Comparatively new were his gloves, which were bought before the World War; and his hat was only fifteen years old. Waldie, who was of Scotch descent, carried a cane that was new long before the Revolutionary War.

STRANGEOGRAPHY.

The southmost point of Canada, which is Pelee Island, in Lake Erie, is as far south as the northern boundary of California. This point in Canada, strange as it seems, is 45 miles southeast of the city of Detroit. Canada thus extends farther south than the southmost points of eleven States in the United States—Maine, Vermont, New Hampshire, Wisconsin, Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, Montana, Idaho, Oregon and Washington. Several other States extend farther north than the southmost point in Canada. They are Connecticut, Rhode Island, New York, Pennsylvania, Michigan, Iowa, Nebraska and Wyoming.

RESIDENTIAL SECTOR OFF-SALE BEER WON IN ADKINS' DECISION

But Court Denies On-Sale Permits in 200 Feet of Schools.

The District Commissioners yesterday won a 50-50 victory in the District Supreme Court when Justice Jesse C. Adkins upheld one of their beer bill regulations and disavowed their legal ability to make a second.

Justice Adkins declared that the Commissioners were without the power to bar beer sales for outside imbibing merely because the place selling the stuff was in a residential zone. This means that the Commissioners will henceforth be compelled to issue off-sale permits to places in residential neighborhoods.

On the other decision, Justice Adkins held that the Commissioners were entirely within their legal and discretionary powers when they refused to license on-sale permits within 200 feet of primary and high schools. He traced the litigation through to prewar days when the 200-foot limit was established.

To Reconsider Applications.

The suits were brought against the Commissioners by Samuel Wertlieb, Fourteenth and C streets northeast, and Raymond J. Lowry, a druggist, of Eleventh and C streets northeast, and Peter Robert Haley, who conducts a luncheon in Georgetown.

The first two secured, by the ruling, an order of the court compelling the Commissioners to issue them licenses, while Haley lost his fight because his place is directly across the street from a parochial school. The ruling, in toto, means that no off-sale license can be denied because the seller is in a residential neighborhood, but can be denied, for on-sale, because of the 200-foot limit for inferior schools.

The Beverage Permits Board will reconsider all applications for off-sale licenses to sell beer in residential zones as a result of Justice Adkins' decision, but the opening up of residential areas by the court is not interpreted as applying to applications for on-sale permits.

Adoption of Regulation.

It is not known exactly how many applications are involved by the decision, but there are probably a score or more.

The regulation which barred the sale of beer by business establishments operating in residential areas on a nonconforming basis was adopted by the Commissioners under authority which they believed was vested in them by the District zoning act.

Businesses which are operating in residential zones on a nonconforming basis existed prior to the passage of the zoning act, and while they are permitted to continue operation they are not allowed to expand.

Petworth Group Names 2 for Community Drive

The Petworth Citizens Association last night appointed two of its members to aid the Community Center Department in a drive for more funds for the coming year, and adopted a resolution asking the Board of Education to include in the 1935 estimate a fund sufficient to carry the department through that year.

The members who will work with the Center Department are John T. Thomas and Mrs. Estelle B. Schwartz. A motion was passed calling the attention of the Traffic Bureau to the hazardous traffic conditions at Eighth and Allison streets and Seventh and Webster streets.

MRS. ROOSEVELT CHEERED AT FORT HUNT

JOBS AWAIT NAMING OF COMMISSIONERS

Selection of Public Printer Occupies Attention of District Leaders.

With selection of District Commissioners hanging fire, local political attention is turning to possible selections for other jobs which are waiting to be filled. It is not likely any of these will be filled before the District Commissioners are named.

So far as the Commissioners are concerned, the same names are rated at the top of the list of probabilities. These include Ernest Walker, Harry King, Melvin Hazen, Malcolm McConihe, John A. Korman and one or two others whose supporters have been seeking to guard their names. But from present indications the Commissioners will be selected from the first four. Mr. Roosevelt, of course, may surprise the city and pick his own man, possibly on the advice of Frederic A. Delano. Postmaster James A. Farley, however, has not sent the President any formal list.

Attention has turned to the selection of the Public Printer. James W. Bryan, of Washington, is expected to be named Public Printer to succeed George Carter, incumbent. There are several others after the job, however, including Cornelius Ford, who once had the job; Daniel McDonald, of Boston; Dowell Patterson, of South Carolina, and James J. O'Brien, of Nashville.

Audience Enjoys Revue of "Follies"

An enthusiastic audience last night received Mildred's Junior Follies, annual children's presentation of the Mildred School of Dance, in the Wardman Park Little Theater.

With a cast of 45 youngsters, the musical revue went well toward establishing a mark in amateur theatricals. A program of songs and dances, under direction of Miss Mildred Bargagni, brought rounds of applause from the crowded theater.

Little Dorothy Goodman, in her song and dance routines, provided a high spot in nearly every scene. Lorraine Smith also brought bursts of approval.

Mental Patient Escapes From Walter Reed Ward

John Costigan, a mental patient, escaped from the insane ward of Walter Reed Hospital early last night. The first hospital authorities knew of his disappearance was when his clothing was found on the hospital grounds. Whether he obtained other clothing is not known.

The patient was sent to the hospital last January from Fort Thomas, Ky.

$31,000 Bond Purchase Approved.

The Montgomery County Commissioners yesterday approved purchase by the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission of $31,000 of its own bonds for the commission's sinking fund.

Mrs. Roosevelt Leads Song at Bonus Camp

A Washington colored veteran—whose singing specialty is "Mother Machree"—yesterday inspired Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt to lead a large company of bonus seekers in the famous war song—"There's a Long, Long Trail a Winding."

As the First Lady completed a short talk at Fort Hunt, the veteran, Paul L. Loving, stepped forward and asked if he could sing her a song.

She assented. For three verses Loving took the center of the stage. When he had finished, Mrs. Roosevelt complimented him and said:

"Come, let's all sing 'Long, Long Trail a Winding.' I'm sure you all know the words."

With the First Lady's soprano joining in, the group lustily sang the well-known song.

SUPPORT OF JEWISH CAMPAIGN IS URGED

Morris Rothenberg Describes Condition and Need of Palestine Zionists.

Support of the United Jewish Campaign "to combat Hitlerism wherever we encounter it" was urged last night at a mass meeting held at the Jewish Community Center.

The gathering was to further the campaign and the chief speakers were Morris Rothenberg, president of the Zionist Organization of America, and Rabbi W. F. Rosenblum, former Washington rabbi, now of New York.

Rabbi Rosenblum told the audience of the great need of Jewish people in eastern Europe and in Germany since the beginning of the Hitler regime. Conditions and the need for aid in Palestine were described by Mr. Rothenberg.

Edwin I. Kaufman, cochairman of the campaign, spoke briefly on the anti-Jewish edicts of the Hitler government. Isidore Hershfield, cochairman, presided and introduced the speakers.

Although no attempt was made to raise money at this meeting it was announced more than $2,000 in contributions had already been received toward the $30,000 goal.

DONALDSON SLAYING TOLD BY 2 CHILDREN

Hold Fate of Uncle in Trial on Charge of Murdering Their Father.

On the lips of two small children, Luttrell, 11, and Allan Donaldson, 8, today hangs the fate of their uncle, Charles Donaldson, 52, who is charged with killing their father.

In addition to the killing of Silas Donaldson, the father, other indictments charge Donaldson with the slaying of his nephew and niece, George and Mary Donaldson.

The jury was told an unfaltering story by the two children. They related how their uncle, appearing "strange and weird," appeared at the door of their bedroom in the home at 923 Maryland avenue southwest, January 8.

They said that he first threatened them, and then began firing, with the result that their father was killed, along with their brother and sister. The Government, through Assistant United States Attorney Irvin Goldstein, contends that a "grouch" nursed by Charles Donaldson resulted in the killing of the trio, though the indictment on which he is now being tried charges only one murder.

The Government concluded its case yesterday and the defense began its efforts to save Donaldson from electrocution, which would automatically result if he were convicted of first-degree murder. The case is expected to go to the jury today, with defense attorneys Henry Schweinhaut and Lucian Vandoren having only a few witnesses to place on the stand.

D. C. Bill Parley Today at Capitol

The House and Senate showdown on the District appropriation bill last night was scheduled for 10 a. m. tomorrow, when conferees from the two chambers are slated to meet on the controversial measure.

Senate conferees, headed by Senator Elmer Thomas (Democrat), Oklahoma, will make a fight to save the more liberal language written into the measure by the Senate, providing for new school and bridge construction and a $6,250,000 Federal lump sum toward the District.

Representative Clarence Cannon (Democrat), Missouri, who will manage the House conferees, is expected to wage the usual House fight for sharply curtailed District allowances.

J. S. Hunter's Will Filed in New York

The will of James Sykes Hunter, 64, wealthy consulting engineer of Washington and New York, who died May 1 in New York, was filed in New York yesterday, leaving the residue to five sisters and a friend.

One of the sisters, Mrs. Edith H. Goddard, of Denver, Colo., was left one-twelfth of the residue. The other sisters each receive two-twelfths.

They are Mrs. Lyda M. Maltman, of 4105 Legation street northwest; Mrs. Marion V. Thomas, of 2117 G street northwest; Mrs. Winnie W. Sale, Norwood, Ohio, and Mrs. Harriet J. Rinaldo, Bealisville, Ohio.

Mr. Hunter was born in Washington and spent the early part of his life here. He was a son of the late Mary B. and William C. Hunter.

2 MORE BANKS ACT TO JOIN IN MERGER AND FREE DEPOSITS

Reopening Steps Advanced by Woodridge-Langdon and Northeast Savings.

Northeast Savings Bank and Woodridge-Langdon Savings & Commercial Bank are expected to be the next two restricted banks to enter a plan for the formation of a new national bank to which Federal-American National Bank & Trust Co., District National Bank, Potomac Savings Bank and Washington Savings Bank are definitely committed.

Officials of the foregoing two banks conferred with representatives of the latter four yesterday on the plan for the new national institution which, if realized, will make available immediately 50 per cent of the deposits in the institutions participating, or approximately $10,000,000.

The United States Savings Bank will not take part in the new plan, according to Col. Wade H. Cooper, president and principal stockholder, who announced that he "saw no reason for the bank merging with any other bank."

Cooper Has Own Plan.

Col. Cooper declared that he had submitted a plan to the Treasury Department whereby he hopes to pay 100 cents on the dollar to depositors. He said that the bank had for years earned from 40 to 60 per cent and paid a dividend of 30 per cent.

Although directors of the institution have held several conferences on the proposal to merge, W. H. Zepp, conservator, announced that no decision had been reached.

Authorities interested in the organization of the new bank yesterday declined to comment on published reports that it would be open soon.

There must be at least $1,000,000 worth of stock subscribed before opening.

Proposal to Be Explained.

The plan for opening the new national bank will be explained to the directorates of the four banks already definitely committed to it by Mr. Graham today at 1 p. m. at a meeting to be held in the small ballroom of the Willard Hotel. Mr. Graham was in conference regarding the plan yesterday with Walter J. Cummings, executive assistant to Secretary of the Treasury Woodin.

The plan to reopen the closed banks will not relieve the stockholders in these banks from their liability for an assessment up to 100 per cent of their stock holdings, it was learned. If the bank's assets when thawed are not sufficient to pay off the depositors in full, the stockholders may be called upon to make up the difference, it was said. It is not certain that this assessment will have to be made, however.

5 Policemen and 4 Firemen to Retire

Retirement of five policemen and four firemen was ordered yesterday by the District Commissioners upon recommendation of the Police and Firemen's Retiring and Relief Board following the annual physical examination of all members of both departments more than 55 years old.

The policemen are Sergt. Coleman R. Brown, and Privates Enoch S. Bradshaw, John J. Cavanagh, Frank S. Brown and Ambrose E. Brown. The firemen are Lieut. R. C. Glassock, Sergt. O. L. Rose and Privates D. F. Sullivan and J. T. Albers. Retirements are effective May 31.

The board rejected the recommended retirement of three policemen, Lieut. James H. Lee and Privates William J. Canfield and William A. Reith, and one fireman, Private Fuasth Anthony.

Student Economic Conference Closes

Resolutions on national defense, the merchant marine and interallied debts, recommended by committees of the student economic conference of the Foreign Service School of Georgetown, were adopted at the closing session yesterday. The school was under the direction of Father Edmund Walsh, S. J.

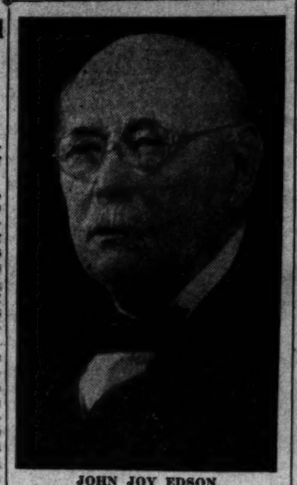
The committee on disarmament and national defense recommended that the United States should immediately begin to build up its Navy to the limits set forth in the arms conferences of 1922 and 1930, per the agreed treaty basis. It advocated that the Army be brought up to 280,000 men.

The committee on merchant marine declared that the welfare of the Nation demands the maintenance of an adequate merchant marine and "that to achieve this end subsidies, equalizing the handicap of the American shipping industry in world competition, must continue to be granted."

The committee on interallied debts advocated that delegates to the economic conference be authorized to use war debts as a bargaining agreement and that they be allowed to offer a maximum reduction of 50 per cent in exchange for trade and other concessions in favor of the United States.

John Joy Edson, 87, Is Active in Business

Philanthropist to Spend Birthday Quietly at Daily Tasks.



JOHN JOY EDSON.

John Joy Edson, one of the Capital's most beloved citizens, is 87 years old today.

He was born in Jefferson, Ohio, May 17, 1846, but has lived the greater part of his life in Washington. Today will find him attending to his duties as banker and business man, as active as many men years his junior. He is president of the Equitable Building Association, having held this position since 1898, and is chairman of the board of the Washington Loan & Trust Co.

As a philanthropist and civic worker, Mr. Edson is known throughout Washington. He was one of the first members and officers of the Board of Trade, having helped organize this important trade body 50 years ago. Many of the good deeds performed for the city have been contributed by Mr. Edson through the medium of the Board of Trade.

On the afternoon of May 11, 1928, a week before his eighty-second birthday, Mr. Edson was struck by an automobile on F street between Ninth and Tenth streets northwest. His life was despaired of, but a domineering spirit and powerful physique, built up by years of temperate living, carried him to recovery.

Since then Mr. Edson, although noticeably weakened by the effects of the accident, has led the life of a prominent business man and citizen. His appearance at a social gathering, business meeting, or in any surroundings where his face is familiar, is the cue for affability and gentility on the part of all those within his presence.

Mr. Edson will spend his birthday in keeping with his outstanding characterists—quietly, inauspiciously and gratefully.

D. C. YOUTH'S WORK SELECTED FOR FAIR

Education Murals Chosen to Be Shown at Chicago Exposition.

Three large paintings representing education yesterday, today and tomorrow, the work of William Thompson, 19 years old, of 2922 Cortland place northwest, Central High School's graduate, and a student at the Abbott Art School, are to occupy a prominent position in the Government's education exhibit at the Century of Progress Exposition at Chicago, it was announced yesterday by the United States Office of Education.

The pictures, 5 by 6 feet, depict in detail the development of education. The first one shows the schoolmaster with his cane, seated at a high stool, teaching the there R's.

In the second, education today. Mr. Thompson presents the fine modern type of school building and the various departments of the up-to-date school.

The third picture, education tomorrow, is perhaps the most interesting. What education may be like in the next 25 or 50 years—school, theater, civic and sports center all combined in one building; students going to school at night; pupils transported in autogyros; a school entrance on a roof top; a talk-o writer on which the spoken word is transcribed into printed ones and a class of student tours abroad, made possible through television.

PLANS TO IMPROVE ALLEYS NEAR GOAL

Revised Capper Bill Will Go Before Senate Committee This Afternoon.

Corporation Counsel William W. Bride and Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, director of public buildings and public parks, reconciled some of their differences on the alley closing bill yesterday in a conference at the District Building, and they will propose certain modifications when the Senate District Committee resumes consideration of the measure today.

Under the compromise the cost of replacing dilapidated alley dwellings with new structures would be borne by the Federal Government, rather than the District government. Blind alleys also would be converted into narrow, but through streets.

Mr. Bride and District Surveyor Melvin C. Hazen on Monday told the Senate District Committee that many of Washington's alleys could be converted into 30-foot streets at little cost, part of which would be assessed against adjacent property.

A revised draft of the Capper bill calling for rehabilitation of Washington's inhabited alleys, arrived at yesterday during a conference between District and National Park and Planning committee officials, will be laid before the Senate District Committee at 2 p. m. today.

A special subcommittee, composed of Senators Capper, of Kansas, and Austin, of Vermont (Republicans), asked the two groups represented by Bride and Grant to iron out differences in slightly divergent plans, and report back to the committee today.

MRS. M'GLOTHLIN FATALLY INJURED WHEN AUTO SKIDS

Husband, Furman U. Head, Seriously Hurt en Route to Convention Here.

Mrs. W. J. McGlothlin was fatally injured and her husband, Dr. McGlothlin, president of Furman University, Greenville, S. C., was seriously hurt late yesterday in an automobile collision near Kings Mountain, N. C. They were en route to Washington for the Southern Baptist convention which opens Friday.

Dr. McGlothlin was taken to a Gastonia, N. C. hospital, where examination showed he had suffered several broken ribs and other injuries. His condition was reported not serious.

Mrs. McGlothlin died a short time after being taken to a physician's office at Kings Mountain, while E. A. McCann, 35, an employe of a Charlotte, N. C., plumbing firm, reported to have been the driver of the other car, died later.

Dr. McGlothlin's son, W. J. McGlothlin, jr., and Wenner Fallow, a companion, were slightly hurt.

Skidding on the wet pavement, the McGlothlin car crashed into the other. Two other occupants of the latter machine were also seriously injured.

Dr. McGlothlin is a former president of the Southern Baptist convention, and was to have a prominent part on the program of this session. He was to deliver the principal address at the dedication of the National Baptist Memorial Church, at Sixteenth street and Columbia road, next Tuesday. He also was chairman of an important convention committee and was expected to speak at one of the sessions.
